Rails Panel Charts Busy Work Week

Signs Increasing Legislation Only Way To Nip Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy's blue ribbon rails panel has drawn up a busy work schedule for next week amid increasing signs that legislation is the only way to avert a nationwide strike.

The six-man committee, which spent Thursday and Friday getting organized, gave no definite sign today that any of its individual members may step in as mediator in another try at ironing out the four-year-old dispute over new work rules.

The members were not selected for a mediation function, the chairman, Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, has pointed out.

The function is primarily fact-finding to help the President draw up legislation to be recommended to Congress by July 22, Wirtz has emphasized.

A government official made it clear that with the carriers and the five operating unions as adamant as they are, there seems to be little hope for any settlement other than through legislation.

The committee will pursue its task under the strike truce arranged by President Kennedy Wednesday. Under that agreement the carriers have postponed until July 29 putting into effect new work rules designed to eliminate gradually upwards of 60,000 jobs and the unions have said they will delay strike action until that date.

The committee has taken a weekend break, leaving half-dozen Labor and Commerce Department specialists to iron out operational procedures.

The panel will resume sessions Monday with representatives of the carriers and the unions summoned for quizzing on any issues that may arise.

Tuesday, a similar session will be held—first with all concerned taking part, then the committee meeting with each side separately.

Asst. Secretary of Labor James J. Reynolds said that Wednesday the committee will begin preparing its report to the President. Reynolds said it is hoped that the job will be finished by Friday, three days in advance of Kennedy's deadline for the fact-finding job.

The administration has avoided giving any hint of what Kennedy's recommendations will be, but some sources have indicated the remedy will involve some form of arbitration.

If it is arbitration the onus for eliminating rail jobs thus would be taken off union leaders, who could place the responsibility on Congress. The unions have said repeatedly they oppose any form of compulsory arbitration.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president and a member of the committee, who earlier had made certain with Wirtz that individual members would be permitted to mediate on their own should the opportunity arise, had nothing to say on the issue Friday.

Stuart Saunders, board chairman of the Norfolk & Western Railway, said he would have nothing to say at this time on whether he would attempt any settlement on his own.

Joseph Block, board chairman of Inland Steel Co. of Chicago; George M. Harrison, chief executive of the AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, and Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges are the other members.

Hancock County will receive $998,599 in state aid in the 1963-64 allocations — an increase of $94,130 over last year — but most of the additional revenue already is earmarked for teachers' salaries instead of operations.

Supt. Robert H. Hall said the increase stems from an act of the State Legislature raising monthly salaries of teachers without degrees $10, those with bachelor's degrees, $25, and those with master's degrees, $30, across nine and one-half months of work.

The county system will receive very little state aid for increased enrollment and higher transportation costs, Supt. Hall said. Enrollment gained by 200 last year.

The Board of Education will meet Monday night at 8 in New Cumberland High School. Dr. W. Dale Williams is president.

Wellsville Man Acts

Police Job Battle Taken Into Court

The question of appointment of a fifth patrolman on the Wellsville police department has reached Common Pleas Court in Lisbon.

Joseph A. Heiney, former patrolman, filed a petition Friday afternoon seeking a writ of mandamus that would compel the city administration to fill a vacancy on the police force from one of three names on an eligibility list certified by the Civil Service Commission.

Mayor William W. Daugherty and Safety - Service Director Fred Baldasare are named defendants in the court action filed by Heiney, who resigned his patrolman's post effective June 16.

HEINEY is president of Wellsville Fraternal Order of Police Lodge 11, but acted as an individual taxpayer. He has retained Atty. Ben H. Berman of East Liverpool and Atty. Frank W. Springer of East Palestine.

A hearing on the mandamus petition will be held Aug. 13 at 9 a. m.

As head of the FOP, Heiney has opposed the proposal of Mayor Daugherty to hire meter attendants to fill the vacancy created by his resignation, with reassignment of Patrolman Robert Wellington, now on parking meter control duty.

WELLSVILLE City Council passed legislation in 1951 setting the force at six patrolmen and a chief. Then on Dec. 17, 1957, Council established the post of captain, but did not raise the number on the force.

The department now consists of Chief John Hephner, Capt. Pete Trainer and Patrolmen Wellington, Denton Kevan, Frank Daniels and Ed James.

Heiney claims in his petition the administration asked for a certified list for patrolman Feb. 13 and was presented the names of Charles Amato and Leonard Hephner by the Civil Service Commission.

REQUESTING another eligibility list April 1, the administration received the names of Amato, Hephner and Gene Keith Hamilton, the petition says.

Peking Brands Parley Flop

Soviet And Red Chinese Seen Ready To End Talks

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet and Red Chinese Communist party experts entered what may be one of their final unity meetings today. The Chinese have already called the conferences a flop.

A statement from Peking indicated the Chinese negotiators felt they had lost a battle, not the war, and were pushing for further talks.

"Differences that cannot be settled immediately may be laid aside," the Peking statement said. "If we cannot finish our discussions in one session, several can be held, and our parties can hold further bilateral talks."

With the negotiations apparently winding up, the way seemed clear for the Russians to open their meetings Monday with U.S. and British officials on a nuclear test ban.

Red China broke the week-long official silence surrounding the ideological peace talks, Friday, acknowledging "with hearts" that attempts to heal the widening breach between Communism's giants have failed.

Then, in an apparent attempt to avoid charges of rupturing the talks, Peking held the door open for further negotiations at another time.

"We want unity, not a split," the official Peking People's Daily said in an editorial broadcast by the New China News Agency, monitored in Tokyo. It added, "The present situation is very grave."

Peking said it had hoped relations with Moscow would be eased by the talks "but we now have to point out with heavy hearts that events have gone contrary to our hopes."

Soviet informants predicted the meetings would end in two or three days. Good sources indicated the two sides did not even agree on a basis to open the negotiations.

The admitted failure in the attempt to reconcile Premier Khrushchev's peaceful coexistence line with Peking's militant stand came two days before the scheduled opening here of new East-West nuclear test ban talks.

U.S., British and Soviet test ban negotiators will meet Monday. Western circles here viewed prospects of an accord on the long-deadlocked issue with guarded optimism.

Although conceding that the current Soviet-Chinese meetings are doomed to failure, Peking expressed hope that future sessions would be more fruitful.

At the same time the editorial gave vent to feelings of outrage.

"Since the start of the Chinese-Soviet talks, the Central Committee of the Soviet Union has not ceased its public attack on the Communist party of China," Peking said.

Militia Law Imposed

Master Spy Hunted By Red Agents

Searching Britain On Orders To Kill Or Kidnap Russian

LONDON (AP) — Soviet agents are searching Britain with orders to kill or kidnap master spy Anotoli Dolnytsin, who defected to the West 18 months ago, British newspapers said today.

The Daily Express said an attempt already may have been made on the defector's life.

Dolnytsin brought with him Soviet military secrets and details of spy networks and undercover agents working for the Soviet Union. He is understood to have provided British counter-intelligence agents with a list of people in Britain who may be — or could be — Soviet agents.

Dolyntsin is in hiding, under guard, being groomed for a new identity. It is considered vital that he should be unrecognizable to the Soviet agents who for months to come are sure to press an intensive manhunt.

Dolnytsin's defection is believed to have dealt a severe blow to Soviet intelligence services. The Soviets will want him eliminated —for revenge and as a warning to others, informants noted.

Plastic surgery may be used to give Dolnytsin a new face — as it did for many British secret agents during World War II. Then he would be unrecognizable even to those who knew him during the eight months or so he lived in London while on a tour of duty here.

It generally is believed that Dolnytsin defected while serving in a Soviet satellite country after first contacting the U.S. embassy in an allied country. One report said he defected in a town in North America.

For about a year Dolnytsin was quizzed by the Central Intelligence Agency in the United States. After he requested asylum in Britain, he was flown here and interrogated.

Dolnytsin is credited with providing information that led to the exposure of William John Vassal, the homosexual spy in the British Admiralty.

He is reported to have given counter-intelligence agents information that pointed to Harold Philby as the man who tipped off turncoat British diplomats Guy Burgess and Donald Maclean that they were about to be arrested. Burgess and Maclean fled to Soviet Russia.

In January, Philby disappeared. He is believed to be behind the Iron Curtain.

A month after Dolnytsin defected, an engineering member of a Soviet trade delegation in West Germany was named by the Germans as a Soviet agent — in February 1962.

The following month, the West German Interior Ministry announced that five Communist spy rings had been broken up "in the last eight weeks."

No hint was given of the source which led to these discoveries. But there seems little doubt Dolnytsin played a key role.

Since then there has been an international spy purge and a number of Soviet agents and spy networks have been uncovered.

Showers Due Sunday To Increase Humidity

Sunday will be a little cooler, but the humidity will be higher and there's a good chance of afternoon showers, the Ohio weatherman said today.

The mercury is scheduled to hit a high of 84-90 degrees this afternoon. It will be fair and mild tonight, with a low of 60-66.

The forecast for Sunday calls for partly cloudy weather, slightly lower temperatures and higher humidity, with showers.

Communist Party Banned In Ecuador

Ruling Junta Picks Up 150 Leftists In Outlawing Red Unit

QUITO, Ecuador (AP) — The ruling military junta that ousted President Carlos Julio Arosemena as a drunk and Communist sympathizer outlawed Ecuador's Communist party Friday and rounded up about 150 leftists.

Meanwhile persons who attended a presidential banquet Wednesday night said Arosemena disgraces himself not only by getting drunk and vomiting in front of the guests but also by slurring the U.S. government in the presence of U.S. Ambassador Maurice M. Bernbaum.

Guests reported a hush of embarrassment fell over the banquet hall when Arosemena stood up and said:

"The people of Ecuador and those of the United States enjoy cordial relations but it exists only between the two people. The government of the United States exploits Latin America and exploits Ecuador."

Witnesses related Arosemena swayed, turned to the American ambassador, and said "don't get angry at what I have said because it is only my personal opinion. I hope you will understand and that you will agree."

Bernbaum replied:

"No, Mr. President, I cannot agree with you. The government of the United States is a reflection of the American people."

Arosemena tried to prod Public Works Minister Miguel Salem into agreeing with his statement. The minister sat silent. Arosemena then staggered out of the room.

Military officers among the approximately 70 guests immediately went into a night-long session to plan the president's removal, informants said.

"It was the straw that broke the camel's back," one diplomat said.

1,500 U.S. Troops Due Airlift To Bonn

PARIS (AP)—About 1,500 U.S. troops of the 1st Division will be airlifted from Kansas to West Germany between July 19 and July 22 in a test of the Army's ability to reinforce potential trouble spots in a hurry.

The battle group will exchange places with a similar 1st Division group flown from the United States in a previous exercise, Supreme Headquarters of the Allied Powers in Europe (SHAPE) said Friday.

Racial Peace Hopes Bright In Savannah

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP) —Units of Georgia's National Guard were on standby today possible use in this seaport while racial peace hopes brightened with a secretly negotiated truce.

Gov. Carl E. Sanders said Friday night he had ordered guard units alerted "to meet any emergency which local authorities determined as being beyond their enforcement capabilities."

The governor's action followed two successive nights of violence in the wake of mass marches by Negroes. He also sent in 50 more state troopers, bring the total on duty to 100.

Sanders appealed to all citizens of Savannah and Chatham County to maintain the peace.

On the heels of his statement came a disclosure that biracial talks had produced an agreement aimed a preventing further disorder. And 26 clergymen, led by their bishops, appealed for restraint and negotiation of racial problems.

Negro leaders pledged to "keep things peaceful," said Msgr. John D. Toomey, past of St. James Roman Catholic Church and a participant in some of the talks.

Toomey said the pledge from Negro leaders did not necessarily mean there would be no deomonstrations. However, a Negro minister indicated mass marches would be suspended for at least a few days.

Final Effort Set To Find Missing Boys

Abandoned Mine's Last Area Target Of Pittsburgh Search

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Officials planned one final probe into an old abandoned mine today in the search for three boys missing since Thursday.

They announced their decision after a six-man rescue team emerged from the mine earlier today and reported they had discovered no clues that would help them determine whether the teenagers are in the suburban Castle Shannon mine.

Everett Turner, a U.S. Bureau of Mines inspector, said exploration into the last area should take about eight hours. Once this is accomplished, he said, officials will have been satisfied that the mine was searched thoroughly.

"Then we'll have to say they're not in there," he added.

Turner said a large pressure fan was to be used to clear deadly black damp gas from the area. The gas forced workers out of the mine for a while Friday night.

However, they resumed the search after fans cleared the air. After about two hours, they quit for the night.

Only theories exist as to the whereabouts of the boys—Robert Abbott, 15, and Danny O'Kain and Billy Burke, both 13.

Over Performance Chart

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tempers are flaring again—this time over a performance chart—as a Senate subcommittee presses ahead with its probe of the TFX warplane contract.

Korth spent his fourth day on the witness stand Friday as the subcommittee probed the award of the TFX contract to General Dynamics Corp. of Fort Worth, Tex., and Grumman Aircraft Engineering Corp. of New York. Senators want to know why Korth and other civilian defense chiefs overrode military evaluations that a design offered by the Boeing Co. of Seattle, Wash., promised a better and cheaper plane.

McClellan challenged a chart which Korth used to support his contention that the General Dynamics-Grumman design is superior. "The way you are presenting it, you are distorting the performance of the Boeing plane, based on the record," he said.

"Mr. Chairman, I deny that we are distorting it," Korth retorted.

Continuing the exchange, a censored transcript of which was made public Friday, McClellan argued that the chart failed to reflect last-minute optional design changes the Boeing Co. had offered to make. He said the changes would have wiped out a claimed 320-mile an hour speed margin for the General Dynamics-Grumman plane and would have given the Boeing craft greater maneuverability at high altitudes.

Korth replied that the contractors knew that only the earlier designs would be evaluated and that technical teams never had evaluated a report spelling out the changes.

Integration Leaders Eye Next Move

Troops With Fixed Bayonets On Guard In Cambridge, Md.

CAMBRIDGE, Md. (AP) — A fragile peace enforced by National Guardsmen with fixed bayonets settled on this racially scarred community today as Negro leaders planned the next move in their integration campaign.

Militia law — and 400 guardsmen backing it up — were reimposed after six persons were wounded Thursday night and early Friday in the second major outbreak of shootings here in a month.

Gov. J. Millard Tawes, turning aside integrationist requests for a special session of the legislature to cope with racial problems, but acknowledging the inability of local police to keep the Cambridge powderkeg from exploding, ordered the guard back into town after a four-day absence.

It had been withdrawn last Monday after a 25-day stay resulting from a series of shootings and store burnings.

There was no violence Friday night as the guard clamped on a series of restrictions just short of martial law, which is forbidden by the state constitution.

Businesses closed at 7 p.m.

By 10 p.m. — an hour after the guard-imposed curfew — streets were deserted.

Liquor, beer and wine sales were suspended in the city and surrounding Dorchester County.

Main approaches to the town were sealed off. Only persons with urgent business were allowed to enter.

Automobiles were subjected to search for firearms at checkpoints.

The ban on demonstrations applied to whites as well as Negroes.

In a test of the ban Friday night, peace-keepers prevailed.

About 250 Negroes and some white sympathizers began a march on the courthouse. Besides their months-long protest against segregated schools and public accommodations, they had a new grievance—the refusal of the state court of appeals a few hours earlier to release two 15-year-old demonstrators sentenced to reformatories as juvenile delinquents.

Such marches had become a daily routine before the June violence and had been resumed last Monday. Tension had mounted since then. White crowds gathering to watch the demonstrators or heckle them had grown larger daily. About 1,000 were there before Thursday night's outbreak.

Friday night, before the marchers had covered one of the seven blocks along the parade route from their church meeting place in the Negro section to the courthouse, they were halted dramatically by Brig. Gen. George M. Gelston, commander of the guard units.

Unarmed and leaving a detachment of his men behind, he slowly walked up the middle of the street toward the marchers a block and a half away. As he met the column of demonstrators, he held up both hands.

Khrushchev Termed Sincere In Test Ban

Informed sources quoted Spaak to that effect Friday after he briefed North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) officials on his talks with Khrushchev in Kiev last week.

Rails Panel Charts Busy Work Week

Signs Increasing Legislation Only Way To Nip Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy's blue ribbon rails panel has drawn up a busy work schedule for next week amid increasing signs that legislation is the only way to avert a nationwide strike.

The six-man committee, which spent Thursday and Friday getting organized, gave no definite sign today that any of its individual members may step in as mediator in another try at ironing out the four-year-old dispute over new work rules.

The members were not selected for a mediation function, the chairman, Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, has pointed out.

The function is primarily fact-finding to help the President draw up legislation to be recommended to Congress by July 22, Wirtz has emphasized.

A government official made it clear that with the carriers and the five operating unions as adamant as they are, there seems to be little hope for any settlement other than through legislation.

The committee will pursue its task under the strike truce arranged by President Kennedy Wednesday. Under that agreement the carriers have postponed until July 29 putting into effect new work rules designed to eliminate gradually upwards of 60,000 jobs and the unions have said they will delay strike action until that date.

The committee has taken a weekend break, leaving half-dozen Labor and Commerce Department specialists to iron out operational procedures.

The panel will resume sessions Monday with representatives of the carriers and the unions summoned for quizzing on any issues that may arise.

Tuesday, a similar session will be held—first with all concerned taking part, then the committee meeting with each side separately.

Asst. Secretary of Labor James J. Reynolds said that Wednesday the committee will begin preparing its report to the President. Reynolds said it is hoped that the job will be finished by Friday, three days in advance of Kennedy's deadline for the fact-finding job.

The administration has avoided giving any hint of what Kennedy's recommendations will be, but some sources have indicated the remedy will involve some form of arbitration.

If it is arbitration the onus for eliminating rail jobs thus would be taken off union leaders, who could place the responsibility on Congress. The unions have said repeatedly they oppose any form of compulsory arbitration.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president and a member of the committee, who earlier had made certain with Wirtz that individual members would be permitted to mediate on their own should the opportunity arise, had nothing to say on the issue Friday.

Stuart Saunders, board chairman of the Norfolk & Western Railway, said he would have nothing to say at this time on whether he would attempt any settlement on his own.

Joseph Block, board chairman of Inland Steel Co. of Chicago; George M. Harrison, chief executive of the AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, and Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges are the other members.

Hancock County will receive $998,599 in state aid in the 1963-64 allocations — an increase of $94,130 over last year — but most of the additional revenue already is earmarked for teachers' salaries instead of operations.

Supt. Robert H. Hall said the increase stems from an act of the State Legislature raising monthly salaries of teachers without degrees $10, those with bachelor's degrees, $25, and those with master's degrees, $30, across nine and one-half months of work.

The county system will receive very little state aid for increased enrollment and higher transportation costs, Supt. Hall said. Enrollment gained by 200 last year.

The Board of Education will meet Monday night at 8 in New Cumberland High School. Dr. W. Dale Williams is president.

Police Job Battle Taken Into Court

The question of appointment of a fifth patrolman on the Wellsville police department has reached Common Pleas Court in Lisbon.

Joseph A. Heiney, former patrolman, filed a petition Friday afternoon seeking a writ of mandamus that would compel the city administration to fill a vacancy on the police force from one of three names on an eligibility list certified by the Civil Service Commission.

The battle group will exchange places with a similar 1st Division group flown from the United States in a previous exercise, Supreme Headquarters of the Allied Powers in Europe (SHAPE) said Friday.

Racial Peace Hopes Bright In Savannah

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP) —Units of Georgia's National Guard were on standby today possible use in this seaport while racial peace hopes brightened with a secretly negotiated truce.

Gov. Carl E. Sanders said Friday night he had ordered guard units alerted "to meet any emergency which local authorities determined as being beyond their enforcement capabilities."

The governor's action followed two successive nights of violence in the wake of mass marches by Negroes. He also sent in 50 more state troopers, bring the total on duty to 100.

Sanders appealed to all citizens of Savannah and Chatham County to maintain the peace.

On the heels of his statement came a disclosure that biracial talks had produced an agreement aimed a preventing further disorder. And 26 clergymen, led by their bishops, appealed for restraint and negotiation of racial problems.

Negro leaders pledged to "keep things peaceful," said Msgr. John D. Toomey, past of St. James Roman Catholic Church and a participant in some of the talks.

Toomey said the pledge from Negro leaders did not necessarily mean there would be no deomonstrations. However, a Negro minister indicated mass marches would be suspended for at least a few days.

Final Effort Set To Find Missing Boys

Abandoned Mine's Last Area Target Of Pittsburgh Search

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Officials planned one final probe into an old abandoned mine today in the search for three boys missing since Thursday.

They announced their decision after a six-man rescue team emerged from the mine earlier today and reported they had discovered no clues that would help them determine whether the teenagers are in the suburban Castle Shannon mine.

Everett Turner, a U.S. Bureau of Mines inspector, said exploration into the last area should take about eight hours. Once this is accomplished, he said, officials will have been satisfied that the mine was searched thoroughly.

"Then we'll have to say they're not in there," he added.

Turner said a large pressure fan was to be used to clear deadly black damp gas from the area. The gas forced workers out of the mine for a while Friday night.

However, they resumed the search after fans cleared the air. After about two hours, they quit for the night.

Only theories exist as to the whereabouts of the boys—Robert Abbott, 15, and Danny O'Kain and Billy Burke, both 13.

Over Performance Chart

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tempers are flaring again—this time over a performance chart—as a Senate subcommittee presses ahead with its probe of the TFX warplane contract.

Korth spent his fourth day on the witness stand Friday as the subcommittee probed the award of the TFX contract to General Dynamics Corp. of Fort Worth, Tex., and Grumman Aircraft Engineering Corp. of New York. Senators want to know why Korth and other civilian defense chiefs overrode military evaluations that a design offered by the Boeing Co. of Seattle, Wash., promised a better and cheaper plane.

McClellan challenged a chart which Korth used to support his contention that the General Dynamics-Grumman design is superior. "The way you are presenting it, you are distorting the performance of the Boeing plane, based on the record," he said.

"Mr. Chairman, I deny that we are distorting it," Korth retorted.

Continuing the exchange, a censored transcript of which was made public Friday, McClellan argued that the chart failed to reflect last-minute optional design changes the Boeing Co. had offered to make. He said the changes would have wiped out a claimed 320-mile an hour speed margin for the General Dynamics-Grumman plane and would have given the Boeing craft greater maneuverability at high altitudes.

Korth replied that the contractors knew that only the earlier designs would be evaluated and that technical teams never had evaluated a report spelling out the changes.

Integration Leaders Eye Next Move

Troops With Fixed Bayonets On Guard In Cambridge, Md.

CAMBRIDGE, Md. (AP) — A fragile peace enforced by National Guardsmen with fixed bayonets settled on this racially scarred community today as Negro leaders planned the next move in their integration campaign.

Militia law — and 400 guardsmen backing it up — were reimposed after six persons were wounded Thursday night and early Friday in the second major outbreak of shootings here in a month.

Gov. J. Millard Tawes, turning aside integrationist requests for a special session of the legislature to cope with racial problems, but acknowledging the inability of local police to keep the Cambridge powderkeg from exploding, ordered the guard back into town after a four-day absence.

It had been withdrawn last Monday after a 25-day stay resulting from a series of shootings and store burnings.

There was no violence Friday night as the guard clamped on a series of restrictions just short of martial law, which is forbidden by the state constitution.

Businesses closed at 7 p.m.

By 10 p.m. — an hour after the guard-imposed curfew — streets were deserted.

Liquor, beer and wine sales were suspended in the city and surrounding Dorchester County.

Main approaches to the town were sealed off. Only persons with urgent business were allowed to enter.

Automobiles were subjected to search for firearms at checkpoints.

The ban on demonstrations applied to whites as well as Negroes.

In a test of the ban Friday night, peace-keepers prevailed.

About 250 Negroes and some white sympathizers began a march on the courthouse. Besides their months-long protest against segregated schools and public accommodations, they had a new grievance—the refusal of the state court of appeals a few hours earlier to release two 15-year-old demonstrators sentenced to reformatories as juvenile delinquents.

Such marches had become a daily routine before the June violence and had been resumed last Monday. Tension had mounted since then. White crowds gathering to watch the demonstrators or heckle them had grown larger daily. About 1,000 were there before Thursday night's outbreak.

Friday night, before the marchers had covered one of the seven blocks along the parade route from their church meeting place in the Negro section to the courthouse, they were halted dramatically by Brig. Gen. George M. Gelston, commander of the guard units.

Unarmed and leaving a detachment of his men behind, he slowly walked up the middle of the street toward the marchers a block and a half away. As he met the column of demonstrators, he held up both hands.

Khrushchev Termed Sincere In Test Ban

Informed sources quoted Spaak to that effect Friday after he briefed North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) officials on his talks with Khrushchev in Kiev last week.

Enraged Mountaineers Raid 'Free Love' Camp

ROSMAN, N.C. (AP) — Mountaineers enraged by reports of free love, nudity and integration have used flame and gun on Summerlane, and put the summer camp out of business in the Blue Ridge mountains near here.

The 70 campers, mostly teenaged boys and girls, left by car and bus Friday under police escort after the gymnasium was burned, the window of a camp bus shot out, and gunfire and blows were exchanged Thursday night and early Friday.

No one was wounded or seriously injured. Sheriff C. R. McCall said he was told the camp was being moved to an unannounced destination in New Jersey.

Some residents of this western North Carolina area, who would not be identified, said they were outraged at what they heard were free love practices and nudity among the campers, and the admission of Negroes.

"All this added together just didn't set too well with the local people. "We're mostly Baptist and pretty serious about it," the sheriff said.

However, camp members said only white persons were enrolled. They described Summerlane as nothing more than a summer place where members could relax, enjoy the solitude of the mountains, swim and participate in athletics.

Its literature described Summerlane as based on the principles of Summerhill, a progressive school in England.

Sheriff McCall said the mountain people were aroused by descriptions of camp activity in "The Herald of Freedom," a small newspaper published in New York city and widely distributed among rural folk here.

In New York, the publisher, Frank Capell, 56, who also operates an employment agency, described the publication as a patriotic, bi-weekly, anti-communist newspaper.

Miss Universe Pageant To Be Expanded In 1964

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The Miss Universe pageant will be expanded in 1964 with the addition of worldwide competition for a "Little Miss Universe."

Philip Bottfeld, pageant executive director, said, "tentatively we plan to limit competition to girls between 5 and 10 years old."

"We want the pageant to be a family affair," Bottfeld told The Associated Press. "Among the little girls you have greater impact. They demonstrate the hope of all nations for the future.

"By bringing them together, we'll be doing the same thing for better international understanding as when this country brings air cadets here from other countries or as we're doing in student exchanges."

Bottfeld said, "We haven't formalized yet how it will relate to the bigger competition. But we think we can get it ready in the next 12 months."

The young girls would be judged on looks and personality. Bottfeld said, "They will demonstrate their sense of humor and alertness.

They will wear party dresses and swimsuits. All in all, it will be patterned on the bigger event."

Processing of contestants was completed Friday, but pageant officials said there might be a couple of late arrivals.

GREENWOOD, Miss. (AP) — The defense fund for Byron de la Beckwith, accused of the murder of integration leader Medgar Evers, is growing, the fund's attorney said Friday night.

hired and the police department be relieved of responsibility of checking parking meters, instead of appointing a patrolman to fill Heiney's former post.

HEINEY'S petition claims that a voted 1-mill levy for police salaries is in force and is being collected from Wellsville taxpayers, but no appointment to the vacancy has been made.

He charges that the "mayor and safety - service director are in violation of their duty, and for personal and partisan political reasons failed to make an appointment to the force from the lists certified to them."

AMATO has been on the eligibility list since November 1958 and has worked as extra patrolman on vacations and at other times.

Council now has under consideration the mayor's proposal that the meter attendants be hired and the force be reduced by one officer. The mayor says the meter attendants would be paid for from the parking meter fund.

Part of the salary of one patrolman already is taken from the meter fund. Legislation to establish the posts of meter attendants was tabled by Council at its last meeting.

Land Values Set In St. Clair Work

Legislation fixing the value and depths of 77 unplatted lots on St. Clair Ave., which will be subject to a special assessment of $10 per front foot for the proposed improvement between Princeton Ave. and the northern city limits, was approved, 6-1, at a special meeting of City Council which ended early this morning.

Councilman Frank Duffy again cast the lone dissenting vote. The resolution was supported by Councilmen Floyd Murray, Kenneth Berg, S. James Welch, Edward Massey, George E. Willshaw and Robert W. Sample Jr.

Called for 11:45 p.m., the meeting got under way at 11:56 and was adjourned by President Charles N. Edwards at 12:36 a.m.

ALTHOUGH Council has a regular meeting scheduled Monday night, it decided on the special session because late working schedules and vacations would have halted any attempt to approve the legislation under suspension of rules.

Murray worked the 3-11 turn Friday and Massey began his vacation today and will not attend Monday's meeting. With Duffy voting against the St. Clair legislation, two more readings would have been required before the resolution could be approved.

Council voted unanimously to give the legislation first reading, with Duffy then voting against suspension of rules and final passage.

IN RESPONSE to a question from Murray, City Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper pointed out the property listed is only the unplatted lots. He estimated it is about half of the abutting property involved.

Immediately after approving the legislation, Council also accepted as part of the record a listing from City Engineer George S. Bloomgren showing all property owners, foot frontage and assessments.

State law requires Council to establish the value and depths of the so-called "acreage parcels" which are not subdivided into lots nor assessed for taxation as subdivided lots.

Because of the length of the improvement, the legislation establishes four neighborhoods in order to fix the fair average depths of the tracts located in each.

NEIGHBORHOOD "A" runs from the northern city limits to Armstrong Ln.; "B" from Armstrong Ln. to Burrows Ave.; "C" from Burrows Ave. to the south line of Fisher Ave., and "D" from the south line of Fisher Ave. to Detroit St.

The fair average depth of lots in "A" is 233 feet; "B", 361 feet; "C", 160 feet, and "D", 140 feet.

Council formally ratified the $10 per front foot assessment for all abutting property at a special meeting June 28 with Duffy opposing. It had agreed informally to the rate last August.

Street Program Petitions Lagging With 18 Entered

Despite appeals for more unpaved streets to be included in this summer's low cost surfacing program, no additional petitions have been received this week.

Eighteen petitions already have been filed and about five are being circulated, according to Mrs. Lillian McKeever, secretary in Safety-Service Director Robert Owen's office.

Owen and Mayor Bert H. Goodballet awarded a contract last week to the Ohio Valley Paving Corp. of St. Clairsville on its bid of 33.9 cents per square yard for 20,000 square yards of surfacing. Because of the relatively few petitions, chiefly for short segments of streets in scattered locations, the contractor said the work would not be started immediately.

A representative of the Belmont County concern expressed disappointment that more neighborhood groups haven't taken action so that entire sections of unimproved streets could be included.

Under the program, property owners would pay 17 cents a lineal foot for an 18-foot wide street. The city also would pay 17 cents as its share, plus the cost of intersections.

Street Program Petitions Lagging With 18 Entered

Despite appeals for more unpaved streets to be included in this summer's low cost surfacing program, no additional petitions have been received this week.

Eighteen petitions already have been filed and about five are being circulated, according to Mrs. Lillian McKeever, secretary in Safety-Service Director Robert Owen's office.

Owen and Mayor Bert H. Goodballet awarded a contract last week to the Ohio Valley Paving Corp. of St. Clairsville on its bid of 33.9 cents per square yard for 20,000 square yards of surfacing. Because of the relatively few petitions, chiefly for short segments of streets in scattered locations, the contractor said the work would not be started immediately.

A representative of the Belmont County concern expressed disappointment that more neighborhood groups haven't taken action so that entire sections of unimproved streets could be included.

Under the program, property owners would pay 17 cents a lineal foot for an 18-foot wide street. The city also would pay 17 cents as its share, plus the cost of intersections.

We Always Fear The Worst

We wonder at times if Americans, reputed to be the most trusting people on earth, may not be represented by the most trusting government.

We wonder about this especially whenever another Russian manages to escape from Russia and wends his way to a haven under the protective wing of the American eagle. It all seems too good to be true—too easy, too obvious.

It is like Premier Khrushchev's protestations of friendship, which turn out to be invitations to come closer so the next poke in the nose can be delivered more handily.

ANOTHER Russian spy—this one a major figure, it is said—is reportedly in London after making arrangements with an American embassy in a foreign capital to turn himself in. He said he preferred to live in Britain, though he made his contact with the United States and presumably is counting on U.S. protection as well as British protection.

What concerns Americans who do not share high-level exuberance over turncoats is the probability that the Soviet Union know how to take advantage of our high-level gullibility.

The kind of men who handle these affairs in Russia have a great advantage over the kind of men who handle them in the United States.

They scratched and clawed their way to survival and power by using every trick in the book. They are totally without illusions about the nature of the game they are playing.

FOR SUCH men, the double-cross is rudimentary.

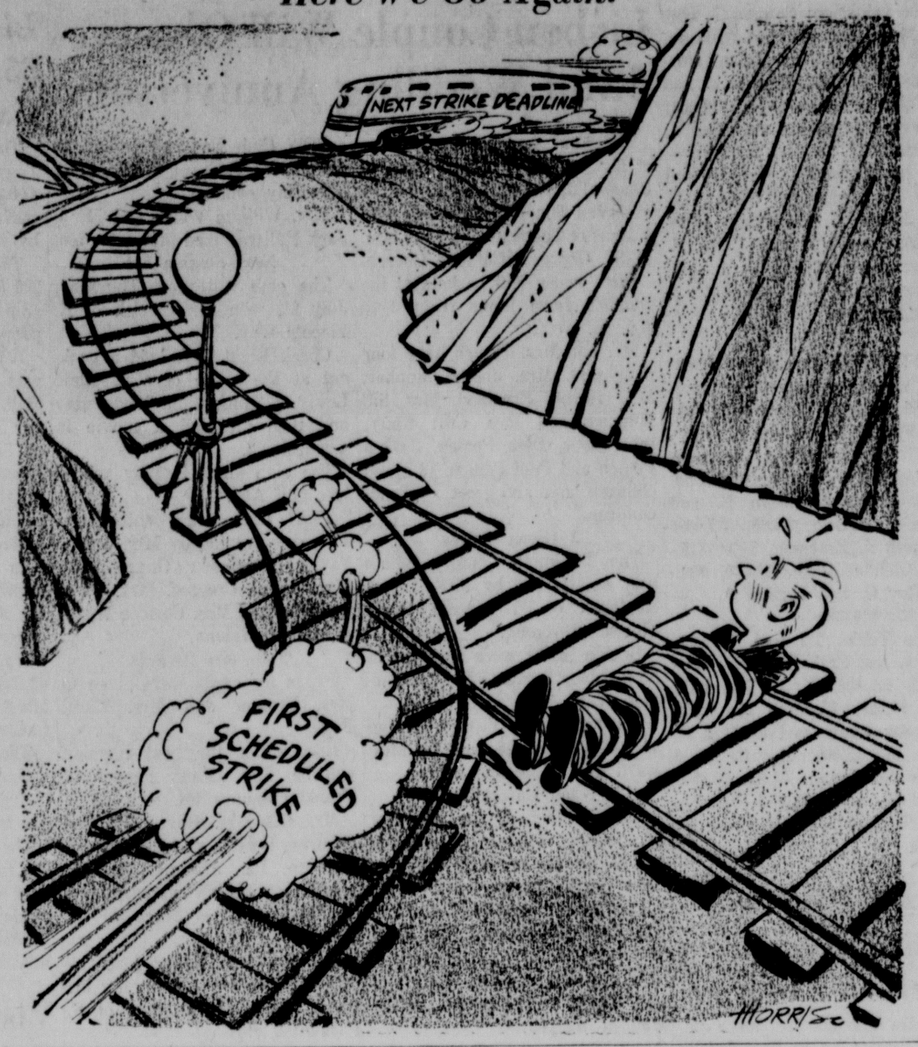
Their skill is rated by their proficiency in the use of the double-double-cross and, beyond that, the double-double-double-cross. For men of their sophistication, planting a "traitor" in a sensitive place is rudimentary.

The question is whether Americans and Britons are smart enough to be as tight-lipped about a turncoat spy as they are capable of being about scientists whose political savvy lagged so far behind their scientific savvy they made indiscreet friendships.

We always hope for the best, but we could wish sometimes the government would let it be known it would trust no turncoat Soviet spy any farther than it could throw Nikita Khrushchev in his winter overcoat and best fur hat.

This would include being skeptical of all the beans spilled in the course of winning confidence.

Here We Go Again!



Another Battle For Old Ironsides

The grand old lady of the U.S. Navy, Old Ironsides, that once did battle with the pirates of Tripoli and the British Navy in the War of 1812 is in the midst of another battle.

In this battle of 1963, the Navy is trying to recapture the famous ship from possessive Bostonians so she can go to the New York World's Fair next year.

The idea has infuriated many Bostonians. Citizens committees, civic groups and historical societies are asking the Navy to keep Old Ironsides in Boston.

It is doubtful that a single piece of wood remains of the original Constitution, yet one citizen asks: "Why should this irreplacable attraction be spirited away to a city that can make no claim on her?"

Her list of sea victories is impressive and her struggle for survival made some notable chapters in the annals of the U.S. Navy.

This ship took part in three bombardments against the pirates of Tripoli in 1805 when the words of the U.S. ambassador to France, Charles C. Pinckney, "Millions for defense but not one cent for tribute," were still ringing in the ears of the American people.

In other feats, Old Ironsides escaped from a British squadron in July 1812; defeated the frigate Guerriere in August and captured the Java in December; took the Picton with a convey in 1814 and the Cyane and Levant in 1815.

She was reported unseaworthy in 1828 and was to be broken up and sold for lumber, but Oliver Wendell Holmes saved her with his poem, "Old Ironsides." ("Ay, tear her tattered ensigns down!")

The public clamor that ensued brought a change of heart.

REBUILT in 1833, "Old Ironsides" was in active service until 1855, when she was "retired" as a training ship. In 1877 she underwent another face-lifting operation and in 1878 crossed the Atlantic for the last time, being stored in the Boston Navy yard in 1897.

In 1927-30 she was reconditioned. School children from all parts of the United States donated pennies for the work. After a tour of 90 American ports. Old Ironsides was returned to Boston where she has remained as a Navy museum afloat.

If Bostonian die-hards have their way and keep "Old Ironsides" at Boston her only future voyages will be the annual turnaround. To equalize warping from sun and wind, tugs pull Old Ironsides away from her berth to reverse her direction. The historic ship then goes back on duty as a tourist attraction.

Last year more than 477,000 tourists were "piped" aboard.

Status Quo For Ohio Blue Law

One thing about the Ohio Blue Law situation was made plain in this year's session of the Ohio General Assembly.

There is hearty behind-the-scenes support for keeping the existing Blue Law on the books. The sources of the support like the law the way it is. They have nothing to gain by changing it.

And how is the law the way it is?

A confused hodge-podge of prohibitions that can be interpreted to suit the desires of anyone who feels like cracking down on Sunday activity or looking the other way.

IT IS AS though Ohioans had turned the Sunday Blue Law into a kind of local option, reflecting whatever happens to be local sentiment and the state of mind of local law enforcers.

This was the situation that set off a clamor for Blue Law reform. Businesses being harassed on the whimsy of local law men and competitors wanted a uniform rule in Ohio covering Sunday operation.

Their argument was taken up by Ohioans with an interest in tidying up the law. This state's antiquated Blue Law is one of the untidiest messes in the statutes, a monstrosity that has lingered through generations of time for no better reason than inability to come to agreement on what to do about it.

The inability still prevails.

NOTHING was done about the Blue Law in the 105th General Assembly, now in recess until next December. It is unlikely anything will be done about it then, either.

The reason is that Ohioans who want to tidy up the Blue Law mess outweighed by Ohioans who like the mess the way it is—messy enough to give them the general effect of local option.

They can crack down or wink at Sunday business, depending on local circumstances. And what some of the circumstances are, if known, might turn out to be bluer than the Blue Law itself.

On The Line

By Truman Twill

You get to wondering if we ever get it through the first layers of rock-headed government functionaries that they are not the guardians of the people's patriotism.

There is nothing about their patriotism that makes it any better than ours. They are endowed with no special qualities because they are on the public payroll.

They are our employes — ours. That is what popular sovereignty means. Public officials work for us, not for some king, or junta, or political party, or a dictator. They work for their peers — the people.

When they begin to act as if we had become answerable to them, instead of vice versa, it is time to put them out of office. Their possession of temporarily delegated power has gone to their heads.

They have started to lapse into the corruption that awaits all officeholders who think government authority is personal instead of public.

They think up stunts to harass the people who put them in power. They pass laws forcing other people to take loyalty oaths, to certify they are as true blue as the officeholders presumably are.

They unionize public jobholding, by putting laws into effect to freeze out outsiders. They demand that a private individual swear a vow of poverty before getting on the public payroll, though they themselves enjoy the prerogative of living high on the hog and working both sides of the street.

They pucker their domes about the books we are reading and the speeches we are hearing. They look down their noses when we protest that all we have been doing is to go by the Constitution. They make us feel like kids who have been caught smoking behind the barn when we insist on our rights to be garden variety Americans.

This we resent.

We resent it because these people we elevate to authority did not get supernatural when they took office. They are neither better nor worse than they were before.

Yet, officeholders always try to endow themselves with special qualities, as when they have the effrontery to argue that if we, their employers, would raise their pay another 10 per cent they would be 10 per cent better. How silly can a jobholder be?

No one has a corner on patriotism in this republic, least of all the knuckle-heads who arrogate trusteeship in this regard.

We do not need to be told by our employes what it is good for us to read, hear and see. We need no twitchy-nosed politicians or other self - designated preceptors and confessors looking over our shoulders to tell us what it is safe and proper for us to do.

But you get to wondering if this ever gets through the skulls of political Pecksniffs who never quit trying to tell us what to listen to, what to look at and what to think.

One thing sure. If we ever quit telling them to mind their own business they'll have us by the throat. It's one battle we dare not lose. Our liberty is on the line.

Sec. Wirtz Sees Racial Progress

Few Presidential Cabinet members face as many crises per day as the secretary of labor. So Victor Riesel asked Willard Wirtz what preoccupied him most these days. His reply follows..

By W. WILLARD WIRTZ
Secretary of Labor

In the struggle for equality now at the forefront of our national life, a few basic areas of long-established prejudice and discrimination are dominant.

Every worker, regardless of his race, would like to have the knowledge that his children's educational opportunities are adequate enough to hold out the promise, one day, of a fuller social and economic life.

He would like to be able to present himself to any personnel office and be judged on the basis of his individual merit.

At present, these basic rights are too often denied to Negro workers.

Of these considerations, the last may very well be the most important and yet the least understood by most Americans. The Negro's place in our national employment picture is not merely an unpleasant one to contemplate. It is appalling.

STATISTICS in this instance are at best an inadequate expression of what is essentially a human condition. Nevertheless, they reveal with marked clarity the story of a job squeeze for the American Negro which he has every right to regard and resent as totally intolerable.

Among family breadwinners in this country, the unemployment rate for non-whites is 9 per cent; 3 per cent for whites.

The unemployment rate for white youngsters age 14 to 19 is at 12 per cent; for non-whites, it soars to 24 per cent.

Non-whites in this country represent 11 per cent of the total labor force. Yet, one out of every four workers who have been out of work a half-year or longer are non-white.

The rate of non-white participation in involuntary part-time work —necessitated by an absence of full-time opportunities — is more than triple that of whites.

Contrary to what may be popular belief, things have not been getting any better. In 1947, the non-white unemployment rate was 64 per cent higher than the white's,; in 1952, it was 92 per cent higher; in 1957, it was 105 per cent higher. Last year, 1962, it stood at 124 per cent higher.

ANOTHER DIMENSION of the problem relates to the kind of work the nation's employed Negroes perform.

Today, some 47 per cent of white workers with jobs hold white-collar positions; as opposed to a corresponding figure of 17 per cent for non-whites. Again, the proportion of Negro workers employed as unskilled laborers is fully 3½ times greater than that of white workers.

The Negro's work plight is most clearly underlined in the professions. Only about one-half per cent of all our professional engineers are non-whites.

Moreover, an across-the-board survey of 19 standard professional occupations on which the Department of Labor maintains data reveals that in none of these does non-white participation exceed 3 per cent.

These statistics reflect the conditions which most concern the American Negro 100 years after his emancipation. They ought to equally disturb anyone whose experience it has been to share fully in all the opportunities our nation offers.

There are, however, readily apparent and specific steps to be taken now. The federal government, for its part, has already embarked upon three major action programs which show great promise of real progress in this field.

Under the Manpower Development and Training Act of 1962, some 50,000 unemployed or underemployed workers have been approved for job training or retraining thus far ,and more than 20 per cent of them are Negroes.

DIRECT FEDERAL hiring of non-whites has been greatly accelerated, and federal influence has been brought to bear on the hiring policies of firms performing work under government contract.

The Department of Labor will no longer certify apprenticeship training programs in which there is any evidence of discrimination on the part of labor, management or both.

In view of the magnitude of the problem, however, these federal actions represent what is at best a severely limited path toward solutions. A broadening of that path would involve rapid progress in three essential areas.

To begin with, it would be a hollow victory indeed if we were to get the "Whites Only" signs down, only to find the "No Vacancies" signs right behind them.

In a word, more jobs are required for whites and Negroes alike. It is toward this goal that the government's programs in the fields of accelerated public works, investment incentives and other economic and manpower measures have been directed.

It's also toward this goal that the President's vastly important tax proposals — now before the Congress — are directed.

A SECOND AREA would relate to the lesser qualifications long associated with the traditional forms of Negro employment. It is a disheartening fact that of today's adults in our country, almost half of our non-whites did not even complete a grade school education. Only 20 per cent of white adults shared this failure.

It's for this reason that President Kennedy devoted so much of his atteniton in the June 19 civil rights message to Congress to the basic matters of training and education.

Finally, we must address ourselves as a people to the harsh, ugly fact of racial discrimination in our nation's employment pattern.

The President has recommended to the Congress appropriate legislation to eliminate discrimination in government employment and in work performed for the government. The provisions of the Civil Rights Act constitute a firm commitment to guarantee equality, and I hope the Congress will act promptly to pass it.

Measures such as these, coupled with similar actions at the state and local levels and a new American outlook toward a clearly untenable situation, could bring rapidly to our Negro population the economic opportunity of which it is today deprived.

As President Kennedy has put it, "Justice requires us to insure the blessings of liberty for all Americans and their posterity — not merely for reasons of economic efficiency, world diplomacy and domestic tranquillity — but, above all, because it's right."

Public Opinion

By David Lawrence

Dictators Aware Of Power Of People's Attitudes

As the world observes from time to time Nikita Khrushchev's erratic and abrupt changes in policy, there is one factor that rarely gets the emphasis that it deserves. It's the influence of public opinion inside a dictatorship country, even when the press and radio are strictly controlled by the government. It might be said of dictators, as it has been said of kings, "uneasy lies the head that wears a crown." Joseph Stalin, in a talk at Moscow with Harry Hopkins, special emissary of the Roosevelt administration, argued against the termination of lend-lease by the United States and said it could affect adversely the public opinion inside the Soviet Union. When Mr. Hopkins smiled, the dictator retorted: "Oh, yes, we have our public opinion, too."

David Lawrence

Because the ultimate triumph of popular opinion and the overthrow of dictatorships are not always immediately discernible on the horizon, they are too often brushed aside as not only improbably but impossible. That's why particular significance attaches to the informal and impromptu remarks made by former President Dwight Eisenhower on Wednesday during a panel discussion with European leaders on a CBS television program transmitted by the telstar system simultaneously from Europe and America.

MR. EISENHOWER was asked by Walter Cronkite, moderator of the program, to assess the seriousness and perhaps the duration of the ideological battle between Moscow and Peking. Mr. Eisenhower replied:

"Well, there's been one comforting thing about the history of dictatorships. The people that are power hungry begin to fall out among themselves. So here, I think, we have one example of — we have a Communist power becoming sort of polarized. It's now centered both in Peking and in the Kremlin, and, naturally, jealousies develop.

"If these jealousies can extend not only into the military and political world but also into the economic, then we would hope that this rift is not only noticeable and, you might say, important, but it will grow.

"But, along with this development between these two Communist giants, we've got to remember this: There are a number of people that are held in subjugation in the world that are themselves unhappy about these things. It isn't the people themselves that are Communists and are embracing Communist doctrines, but you go over — I was in Czechoslovakia, for example, just before the takeover in that country. Well, there was no question about the dedication of the mass of the people to freedom.

"This holds, I think, for all the Eastern (European) nations. They really want to be free and to pursue their own independent courses. Well, they are now held down by Communist military power, and that will continue for some time because, certainly, we're not going to start an aggressive war to break up this thing.

"But within Communist areas themselves, there is constantly an enlightenment that must go along with the scientific development that we see so marked in the Communist nations today. There's bound to become a better understanding of freedom and what it means in West Germany as opposed to East Germany, in the Western nations as opposed to the Iron Curtain countries.

"You just cannot bring into a whole population a knowledge and practice of great and sophisticated scientific techniques without bringing in also an information, an understanding, that's now denied them.

"So, I think that, while sometimes it may become very disappointing that time has to be depended upon, the whole history of dictatorships is that sooner or later they do destroy themselves.

"Now, in the meantime, I think we ought to encourage every kind of dissension, both internal and as between the Chinese and the Russians, and do everything we can to show the power and the determination of the free nations to be dedicated to those basic principles of human dignity and freedom and liberty that are truly the unifying influences among these democratic and self-governing nations."

MR. EISENHOWER'S analysis is significant in itself because he has reached his conclusions after eight years in the White House, where he could make an intimate study of the Soviet system based on intelligence reports, week after week, and on the information that comes to our government regularly from the governments in Western Europe which are close to the Iron Curtain countries.

Mr. Eisenhower today is not, of course, subject to the inhibitions in public discussion that restrain a chief executive in office. President Kennedy could not openly say what Mr. Eisenhower did. Yet it must be inferred that again and again the administration here has had in the back of its mind the possibility that, as a result of steady pressures on the Moscow government, the internal situation in the Soviet Union would come to a head.

THE HIGH COST of armaments weighs heavily on the Soviet dictatorship, since many benefits are denied the Soviet people because their money is being spent to carry on the arms race.

A government that controls the economy, moreover, utilizes all sorts of restrictions that impair the individual initiative and freedom of the citizens.

The Eisenhower analysis will not make good reading in Moscow, but it gives a ray of hope to those in America who believe that ultimately the Communist dictatorship will go the way of the tyrannical autocracy of the czars in Russia.

Civil Rights Law

By Andrew J. Glass

When the South mounts its attack against the administration bill banning racial bias in public places, the halls of Congress will ring with the cry that the Supreme Court has found such a law to be unconstitutional.

The ruling, which voided a public accommodations statute enacted by a Reconstructionist Congress in 1875, is now 80 years old. But, as Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy recently observed, it's "still the law of the land."

Lest this argument deter some moderates from supporting the new civil rights proposal, the administration decided to dodge the issue in a maneuver that the Southerners will contest also on the basis of the high court's 1883 finding.

In advancing the key public facilities part of the measure, President Kennedy was torn between relying on:

Section 1 of the 14th Amendment to the Constitution: ("No state shall. . . . deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws")' or

Section 8, Article I: "The Congress shall have power. . . to regulate commerce. . . among the several states.")

AFTER MUCH soul-searching at the White House, the decision was made to employ both, with the emphasis, however, clearly on the so-called interstate commerce clause.

The 1875 law, which had the same aim as today's legislative effort, rested squarely on the 14th Amendment, although the 13th Amendment, abolishing slavery, was also cited.

Unlike the 1963 bill, offenses were made a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine of between $500 and $1,000 or from 30 to 365 days in jail.

Dividing 8-1, the court struck down the law. Its opinion, delivered by Justice Joseph P. Bradley, said:

"The wrongful act of an individual, unsupported by state authority in the shape of law, customs or judicial or executive proceedings, is simply a private wrong.

"It is state action. . . that is prohibited. Individual invasion of individual rights is not the subject matter of the (14th) Amendment."

Reacting to the Reconstruction era, the court observed:

"When a man has emerged from slavery. . . there must be some stage in the process of his elevation when he takes the rank of a mere citizen and ceases to be the special favorite of the laws and when his rights. . . are to be protected in the ordinary mode by which other men's rights are protected."

We Always Fear The Worst

We wonder at times if Americans, reputed to be the most trusting people on earth, may not be represented by the most trusting government.

We wonder about this especially whenever another Russian manages to escape from Russia and wends his way to a haven under the protective wing of the American eagle. It all seems too good to be true—too easy, too obvious.

It is like Premier Khrushchev's protestations of friendship, which turn out to be invitations to come closer so the next poke in the nose can be delivered more handily.

ANOTHER Russian spy—this one a major figure, it is said—is reportedly in London after making arrangements with an American embassy in a foreign capital to turn himself in. He said he preferred to live in Britain, though he made his contact with the United States and presumably is counting on U.S. protection as well as British protection.

What concerns Americans who do not share high-level exuberance over turncoats is the probability that the Soviet Union know how to take advantage of our high-level gullibility.

The kind of men who handle these affairs in Russia have a great advantage over the kind of men who handle them in the United States.

They scratched and clawed their way to survival and power by using every trick in the book. They are totally without illusions about the nature of the game they are playing.

FOR SUCH men, the double-cross is rudimentary.

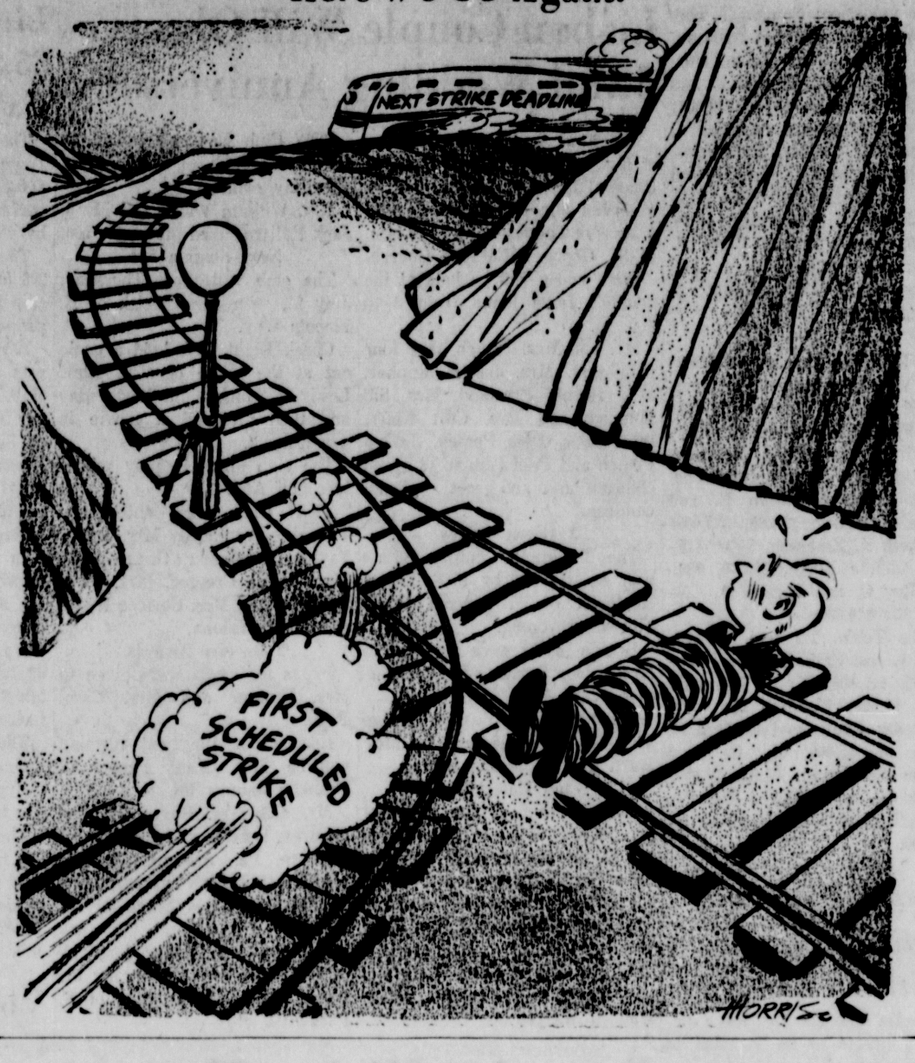
Their skill is rated by their proficiency in the use of the double-double-cross and, beyond that, the double-double-double-cross. For men of their sophistication, planting a "traitor" in a sensitive place is rudimentary.

The question is whether Americans and Britons are smart enough to be as tight-lipped about a turncoat spy as they are capable of being about scientists whose political savvy lagged so far behind their scientific savvy they made indiscreet friendships.

We always hope for the best, but we could wish sometimes the government would let it be known it would trust no turncoat Soviet spy any farther than it could throw Nikita Khrushchev in his winter overcoat and best fur hat.

This would include being skeptical of all the beans spilled in the course of winning confidence.

Here We Go Again!



Another Battle For Old Ironsides

The grand old lady of the U.S. Navy, Old Ironsides, that once did battle with the pirates of Tripoli and the British Navy in the War of 1812 is in the midst of another battle.

In this battle of 1963, the Navy is trying to recapture the famous ship from possessive Bostonians so she can go to the New York World's Fair next year.

The idea has infuriated many Bostonians. Citizens committees, civic groups and historical societies are asking the Navy to keep Old Ironsides in Boston.

It is doubtful that a single piece of wood remains of the original Constitution, yet one citizen asks: "Why should this irreplacable attraction be spirited away to a city that can make no claim on her?"

Her list of sea victories is impressive and her struggle for survival made some notable chapters in the annals of the U.S. Navy.

This ship took part in three bombardments against the pirates of Tripoli in 1805 when the words of the U.S. ambassador to France, Charles C. Pinckney, "Millions for defense but not one cent for tribute," were still ringing in the ears of the American people.

In other feats, Old Ironsides escaped from a British squadron in July 1812; defeated the frigate Guerriere in August and captured the Java in December; took the Picton with a convey in 1814 and the Cyane and Levant in 1815.

She was reported unseaworthy in 1828 and was to be broken up and sold for lumber, but Oliver Wendell Holmes saved her with his poem, "Old Ironsides." ("Ay, tear her tattered ensigns down!")

The public clamor that ensued brought a change of heart.

REBUILT in 1833, "Old Ironsides" was in active service until 1855, when she was "retired" as a training ship. In 1877 she underwent another face-lifting operation and in 1878 crossed the Atlantic for the last time, being stored in the Boston Navy yard in 1897.

In 1927-30 she was reconditioned. School children from all parts of the United States donated pennies for the work. After a tour of 90 American ports. Old Ironsides was returned to Boston where she has remained as a Navy museum afloat.

If Bostonian die-hards have their way and keep "Old Ironsides" at Boston her only future voyages will be the annual turnaround. To equalize warping from sun and wind, tugs pull Old Ironsides away from her berth to reverse her direction. The historic ship then goes back on duty as a tourist attraction.

Last year more than 477,000 tourists were "piped" aboard.

Sec. Wirtz Sees Racial Progress

Few Presidential Cabinet members face as many crises per day as the secretary of labor. So Victor Riesel asked Willard Wirtz what preoccupied him most these days. His reply follows..

By W. WILLARD WIRTZ
Secretary of Labor

In the struggle for equality now at the forefront of our national life, a few basic areas of long-established prejudice and discrimination are dominant.

Every worker, regardless of his race, would like to have the knowledge that his children's educational opportunities are adequate enough to hold out the promise, one day, of a fuller social and economic life.

He would like to be able to present himself to any personnel office and be judged on the basis of his individual merit.

At present, these basic rights are too often denied to Negro workers.

Of these considerations, the last may very well be the most important and yet the least understood by most Americans. The Negro's place in our national employment picture is not merely an unpleasant one to contemplate. It is appalling.

STATISTICS in this instance are at best an inadequate expression of what is essentially a human condition. Nevertheless, they reveal with marked clarity the story of a job squeeze for the American Negro which he has every right to regard and resent as totally intolerable.

Among family breadwinners in this country, the unemployment rate for non-whites is 9 per cent; 3 per cent for whites.

The unemployment rate for white youngsters age 14 to 19 is at 12 per cent; for non-whites, it soars to 24 per cent.

Non-whites in this country represent 11 per cent of the total labor force. Yet, one out of every four workers who have been out of work a half-year or longer are non-white.

The rate of non-white participation in involuntary part-time work —necessitated by an absence of full-time opportunities — is more than triple that of whites.

Contrary to what may be popular belief, things have not been getting any better. In 1947, the non-white unemployment rate was 64 per cent higher than the white's.; in 1952, it was 92 per cent higher; in 1957, it was 105 per cent higher. Last year, 1962, it stood at 124 per cent higher.

ANOTHER DIMENSION of the problem relates to the kind of work the nation's employed Negroes perform.

Today, some 47 per cent of white workers with jobs hold white-collar positions; as opposed to a corresponding figure of 17 per cent for non-whites. Again, the proportion of Negro workers employed as unskilled laborers is fully 3½ times greater than that of white workers.

The Negro's work plight is most clearly underlined in the professions. Only about one-half per cent of all our professional engineers are non-whites.

Moreover, an across-the-board survey of 19 standard professional occupations on which the Department of Labor maintains data reveals that in none of these does non-white participation exceed 3 per cent.

These statistics reflect the conditions which most concern the American Negro 100 years after his emancipation. They ought to equally disturb anyone whose experience it has been to share fully in all the opportunities our nation offers.

There are, however, readily apparent and specific steps to be taken now. The federal government, for its part, has already embarked upon three major action programs which show great promise of real progress in this field.

Under the Manpower Development and Training Act of 1962, some 50,000 unemployed or underemployed workers have been approved for job training or retraining thus far ,and more than 20 per cent of them are Negroes.

DIRECT FEDERAL hiring of non-whites has been greatly accelerated, and federal influence has been brought to bear on the hiring policies of firms performing work under government contract.

The Department of Labor will no longer certify apprenticeship training programs in which there is any evidence of discrimination on the part of labor, management or both.

In view of the magnitude of the problem, however, these federal actions represent what is at best a severely limited path toward solutions. A broadening of that path would involve rapid progress in three essential areas.

To begin with, it would be a hollow victory indeed if we were to get the "Whites Only" signs down, only to find the "No Vacancies" signs right behind them.

In a word, more jobs are required for whites and Negroes alike. It is toward this goal that the government's programs in the fields of accelerated public works, investment incentives and other economic and manpower measures have been directed.

It's also toward this goal that the President's vastly important tax proposals — now before the Congress — are directed.

A SECOND AREA would relate to the lesser qualifications long associated with the traditional forms of Negro employment. It is a disheartening fact that of today's adults in our country, almost half of our non-whites did not even complete a grade school education. Only 20 per cent of white adults shared this failure.

It's for this reason that President Kennedy devoted so much of his attenitons in the June 19 civil rights message to Congress to the basic matters of training and education.

Finally, we must address ourselves as a people to the harsh, ugly fact of racial discrimination in our nation's employment pattern.

The President has recommended to the Congress appropriate legislation to eliminate discrimination in government employment and in work performed for the government. The provisions of the Civil Rights Act constitute a firm commitment to guarantee equality, and I hope the Congress will act promptly to pass it.

Measures such as these, coupled with similar actions at the state and local levels and a new American outlook toward a clearly untenable situation, could bring rapidly to our Negro population the economic opportunity of which it is today deprived.

As President Kennedy has put it, "Justice requires us to insure the blessings of liberty for all Americans and their posterity — not merely for reasons of economic efficiency, world diplomacy and domestic tranquillity — but, above all, because it's right."

Status Quo For Ohio Blue Law

One thing about the Ohio Blue Law situation was made plain in this year's session of the Ohio General Assembly.

There is hearty behind-the-scenes support for keeping the existing Blue Law on the books. The sources of the support like the law the way it is. They have nothing to gain by changing it.

And how is the law the way it is?

A confused hodge-podge of prohibitions that can be interpreted to suit the desires of anyone who feels like cracking down on Sunday activity or looking the other way.

IT IS AS though Ohioans had turned the Sunday Blue Law into a kind of local option, reflecting whatever happens to be local sentiment and the state of mind of local law enforcers.

This was the situation that set off a clamor for Blue Law reform. Businesses being harassed on the whimsy of local law men and competitors wanted a uniform rule in Ohio covering Sunday operation.

Their argument was taken up by Ohioans with an interest in tidying up the law. This state's antiquated Blue Law is one of the untidiest messes in the statutes, a monstrosity that has lingered through generations of time for no better reason than inability to come to agreement on what to do about it.

The inability still prevails.

NOTHING was done about the Blue Law in the 105th General Assembly, now in recess until next December. It is unlikely anything will be done about it then, either.

The reason is that Ohioans who want to tidy up the Blue Law mess outweighed by Ohioans who like the mess the way it is—messy enough to give them the general effect of local option.

They can crack down or wink at Sunday business, depending on local circumstances. And what some of the circumstances are, if known, might turn out to be bluer than the Blue Law itself.

On The Line

By Truman Twill

You get to wondering if we ever get it through the first layers of rock-headed government functionaries that they are not the guardians of the people's patriotism.

There is nothing about their patriotism that makes it any better than ours. They are endowed with no special qualities because they are on the public payroll.

They are our employes — ours. That is what popular sovereignty means. Public officials work for us, not for some king, or junta, or political party, or a dictator. They work for their peers — the people.

When they begin to act as if we had become answerable to them, instead of vice versa, it is time to put them out of office. Their possession of temporarily delegated power has gone to their heads.

They have started to lapse into the corruption that awaits all officeholders who think government authority is personal instead of public.

They think up stunts to harass the people who put them in power. They pass laws forcing other people to take loyalty oaths, to certify they are as true blue as the officeholders presumably are.

They unionize public jobholding, by putting laws into effect to freeze out outsiders. They demand that a private individual swear a vow of poverty before getting on the public payroll, though they themselves enjoy the prerogative of living high on the hog and working both sides of the street.

They pucker their domes about the books we are reading and the speeches we are hearing. They look down their noses when we protest that all we have been doing is to go by the Constitution. They make us feel like kids who have been caught smoking behind the barn when we insist on our rights to be garden variety Americans.

This we resent.

We resent it because these people we elevate to authority did not get supernatural when they took office. They are neither better nor worse than they were before.

Yet, officeholders always try to endow themselves with special qualities, as when they have the effrontery to argue that if we, their employers, would raise their pay another 10 per cent they would be 10 per cent better. How silly can a jobholder be?

No one has a corner on patriotism in this republic, least of all the knuckle-heads who arrogate trusteeship in this regard.

We do not need to be told by our employes what it is good for us to read, hear and see. We need no twitchy-nosed politicians or other self - designated preceptors and confessors looking over our shoulders to tell us what it is safe and proper for us to do.

But you get to wondering if this ever gets through the skulls of political Pecksniffs who never quit trying to tell us what to listen to, what to look at and what to think.

One thing sure. If we ever quit telling them to mind their own business they'll have us by the throat. It's one battle we dare not lose. Our liberty is on the line.

Beaver Local Board May Decide On Levy

A decision on the amount of a proposed levy to be submitted to Beaver Local School District voters in the Nov. 5 general election may be made by the Board of Education at a meeting Monday night at 8 at the Public School.

Beaver Local Board May Decide On Levy

A decision on the amount of a proposed levy to be submitted to Beaver Local School District voters in the Nov. 5 general election may be made by the Board of Education at a meeting Monday night at 8 at the Public School.

The board has been considering a possible new 4-mill levy to meet present level operations of the schools, but an additional 3 mills has been suggested to provide increases in teachers' salaries.

Reductions of state foundation funds have been cited as a basic cause for needing additional funds, and elevation of teachers' salaries is proposed to bring levels up to pay scales elsewhere in the area, George Van Horne, executive head, said.

Action also is planned on the 1963-64 budget, along with study of bids for school bus insurance.

Work Begins On Reservoir For Irondale

IRONALE — Work started Friday on construction of an open reservoir of about 5 million gallons capacity in expansion of the village water system.

The village has made arrangements with Cookson Construction Co. of New Philadelphia to gouge out the open lake - type reservoir on village - owned property along Salt Run Road.

Expansion of the water system is a project of the village Board of Public Affairs. It will be financed from surplus revenue in the general operating fund, according to officials.

Mayor Quenton Henderson emphasized that the construction work will be financed by the village alone, and not residents of the Stanton Local School District.

There will be an adequate supply of water to furnish both the village and the new high school in Hammondsville and provide a six-months supply at all times, the mayor said.

Water lines will be extended from Cream City to the high school to pipe village water to the new school plant, which is equipped with an indoor swimming pool.

Deep wells have proved inadequate in supplying enough water of good quality to the school, school officials said.

Work Begins On Reservoir For Irondale

IRONALE — Work started Friday on construction of an open reservoir of about 5 million gallons capacity in expansion of the village water system.

The village has made arrangements with Cookson Construction Co. of New Philadelphia to gouge out the open lake - type reservoir on village - owned property along Salt Run Road.

Expansion of the water system is a project of the village Board of Public Affairs. It will be financed from surplus revenue in the general operating fund, according to officials.

Mayor Quenton Henderson emphasized that the construction work will be financed by the village alone, and not residents of the Stanton Local School District.

There will be an adequate supply of water to furnish both the village and the new high school in Hammondsville and provide a six-months supply at all times, the mayor said.

Water lines will be extended from Cream City to the high school to pipe village water to the new school plant, which is equipped with an indoor swimming pool.

Deep wells have proved inadequate in supplying enough water of good quality to the school, school officials said.

Sentence Given Youth In Truck Theft Count

A Newell youth was sentenced to 60 days in County Jail for auto theft at a hearing Friday before Common Pleas Judge Raymond S. Buzzard at Lisbon.

He requested the court hear his case on a prosecutor's information as he did not want to wait until the September Grand Jury. Unable to make bond to await Grand Jury action, he was being held in jail.

He was ordered held for the Grand Jury by East Liverpool Municipal Court.

Tough Fines, Terms Meted Out To Rioters

RUSSELLS POINT, Ohio (AP)—Fines and sentences meted out to July 4 rioters at the Indian Lake resort area were tougher this year than the past two as officials sought to discourage a fourth incident next year.

In all but one case, fines ranging from $10 to $100 were collected, either after pleas of guilty or by bond forfeitures.

Pope Assigns 2 To Attend Soviet Event

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI today assigned two Roman Catholic representatives to go to the Soviet Union to attend the Golden Jubilee of Patriarch Alexis of Moscow.

The move was a new step in closer ties between Roman Catholicism and Orthodoxy, especially the Russian church.

The week-long jubilee celebrations open in Moscow Sunday. Orthodox prelates from around the world are attending. There have been reports they might confer on recent moves by the Vatican toward closer contacts.

In this context the Pope's decision to send representatives to Moscow took an added significance.

The Roman Catholic representatives are Bishop Francois Charriere of Lausanne, Geneva and Freiburg, and the Very Rev. Cristophe Dumont, a Dominican who directs the Istina Center in Paris. The center specializes in studies on Orthodoxy.

Both Bishop Charriere and Father Dumont have been in frequent contact with Protestant and Orthodox church groups such as the World Council of Churches, which has its headquarters in Geneva.

IMITATION ADULTS

High comedy! They may not be actresses, but they're accomplished mimics.

Yet as I eavesdrop on their little game of pretending — well, as a mother, I'm just a bit frightened. How readily they pick up our characteristic poses and attitudes . . . always exaggerating to an extent . . . trying to be more like us than we are ourselves!

Then I remember the day John and I made that thoughtful decision to join the Church and raise our Children in a Christian home. What a difference that decision has made in our lives. And what a difference it is making in our children's lives.

There's no harm in youngsters imitating adults . . . so long as the adults they imitate are worth imitating!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

IMITATION ADULTS

High comedy! They may not be actresses, but they're accomplished mimics.

Yet as I eavesdrop on their little game of pretending — well, as a mother, I'm just a bit frightened. How readily they pick up our characteristic poses and attitudes . . . always exaggerating to an extent . . . trying to be more like us than we are ourselves!

Then I remember the day John and I made that thoughtful decision to join the Church and raise our Children in a Christian home. What a difference that decision has made in our lives. And what a difference it is making in our children's lives.

There's no harm in youngsters imitating adults . . . so long as the adults they imitate are worth imitating!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2). For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Koufax Baffles Mets, 6-0, As Dodgers Nail 5-Game Lead

Yastrzemski's Homer Powers Bosox Into 2nd Place

Phils Jolt Giants, 7-5; Cardinals Cubs And Pirates Victors

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

"I was scared to death I'd never pitch again."

That's Sandy Koufax, remembering how things were exactly a year ago.

The brilliant left-hander was in the middle of a spectacular season and the Los Angeles Dodgers were sailing ahead in the National League race on July 12, 1962 at the Polo Grounds in New York.

A numb index finger on his pitching hand forced Koufax to the sidelines after he had blanked the Mets through seven innings. He was credited with the victory —his 14th—but it was his last of the year. The circulatory ailment later idled him for over two months, and the Dodgers wound up losing the pennant to the San Francisco Giants.

But the frightened and disabled Koufax of a year ago is now the hottest pitcher in baseball—a fact he emphasized Friday night, on the anniversary of that dark chapter in his career.

Again at the Polo Grounds and again facing the Mets, he fired a three-hit 6-0 triumph. The shutout was his third in a row and ninth of the season; the victory his eighth straight and 15th of the year—high in the majors. His 13 strikeouts boosted his total to 163, tops in the big leagues, and he lowered his earned run average to 1.64 in his 13th complete game.

The Dodgers? They've won five in succession and have a five-game grip on first place.

St. Louis beat Milwaukee 5-3; Chicago trimmed Cincinnati 4-1 and Pittsburgh shaded Houston 2-1.

The Phils rapped Jack Sanford for four runs in the first inning and three in the fifth, with doubles by Roy Sievers, Don Demeter and Clay Dalrymple the telling blows. McCovey smacked two-run homers for the Giants in the third and eighth—his 25th and 26th—and Harvey Kuenn homered for San Francisco in the eighth. Winner Art Mahaffey was chased in the eighth, but Jack Baldschun checked the Giants the rest of the way.

The Cardinals clinched it with a four-run third inning, capped by Gary Kolb's first major league homer. Bob Gibson won his ninth, with relief from Barney Schultz, and Tony Cloninger was the loser. Gene Oliver and Mack Jones homered for Milwaukee.

The Cubs collected 13 hits in dealing southpaw Jim O'Toole his fourth straight loss. Ernie Banks had a homer in the Cub attack, the 351st of his career for a seventh-place tie with Ralph Kiner on the all-time National League list. Bob Buhl was the winning pitcher, beating the Reds for only the second time in his 11 NL seasons.

Pittsburgh overcame Houston with two runs in the sixth on Dick Schofield's homer and successive singles by Roberto Clemente, Bill Mazeroski and Willie Stargell. Don Schwall got the pitching victory and Bob Bruce was the loser.

Steffen Hurls Deciding Playoff Game

McBurney's Win National Division In Little League

McBurney's sewed up the National League championship of the Little League Friday in pounding Burbick's, 10-1.

Rick Steffen pitched McBurney's to the National League title in winning the third and deciding game of the best-of-three playoff series.

Burbick's had won the first game, 4-0, behind Paul Berhar's perfect pitching, but McBurney's came back to sweep the next two.

Belting 14 base hits, McBurney's scored five runs in the opening frame, added two more in the fourth, and three in the sixth to win decisively.

Steffen, fanning four and walking none, allowed one run in the third inning and scattered nine hits. Bruce Diddle, with two strikeouts, was the losing pitcher.

Phil Hickman and Dan Myers socked doubles and a pair of singles each to lead McBurney's, while Don Hancock had three singles and Bernard Lovejoy homered.

Hickman was injured in scoring the first run for McBurney's, but stayed in action for five innings until retiring in favor of a base runner.

Paul (No Hit) Berhar and Steve Logston had a double and single each for Burbick's, while Mickey Lowry had two singles.

Goodballet, McVey Team In No-Hitter

Mike Goodballet and Mike McVey joined forces for Burbick's to record a no-hit shutout victory over Golden Star in the Pony League Friday at Dopler Field.

With each flipping hitless ball for three innings, Burbick's raced away to a 17-0 victory. The Dairymen sent only 18 batters to the plate and 11 struck out.

Burbick's collected 16 hits off three Golden Star pitchers — 11 off starter Hasala, two off Diddle and three off Talbott. Hasala got the loss.

Goodballet socked two home runs besides sharing in the no-hitter, while Jones also hit two round-trippers. Kidder, Goodballet, McVey and Klembara each had doubles.

Jones and Goodballet drove in 11 of Burbick's 17 runs. The game was called after two outs in Golden Star's half of the final inning.

In another game, George Bright's stopped Litten's, 7-3, on Stewart's six - hitter. Stoddard, Lyle and Hall hurled for Litten's, and Lyle got the loss in yielding six runs in three innings.

Moore had three hits for Bright's, while Lowe had a pair for the losers.

Yanks Nip Angels, 4-3, Lead By 5½; Tigers And Orioles Win

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The first time Ted Williams saw Carl Yastrzemski swing a bat, he made one of his rare predictions: "Don't let anyone change his swing and he'll be a great hitter."

No one has, and Yaz is beginning to make Boston's old batting master look like an oracle.

Yaz lashed an opposite field home run in the top of the 12th inning Friday night and powered the Red Sox past Minnesota 3-2 and into second place.

The Chicago White Sox, 7-6 losers to Detroit in 12 innings, slipped to third, a half game behind Boston and six behind the leading New York Yankees.

The Yanks, powered by Yogi Berra's three-run homer, solved old nemesis Ken McBride and the Los Angeles Angels 4-3. Baltimore beat Washington by the same score. Cleveland at Kansas City was rained out.

Yastrzemski, 23, a student at Notre Dame in the off-season, is in his third season as Williams' successor in left field for Boston and is off to his finest year. He leads the league in hitting, .344, and doubles, 23, is second in hits, 104, has a very respectable one runs batted in and possesses one of the best arms in the league.

Berra's sixth inning homer off McBride brought the Yanks from behind, but they needed a ninth inning run to make it stand up when the Angels ralled on Charley Dees two-run double.

It was the Angels' 10th straight loss and the first time McBride had lost to the Yankees since Aug. 7, 1961.

Bill Freehan singled in Rocky Colavito with the Tigers' 12th inning run, singled in another run and had a solo homer.

John Orsino belted a two-run homer in the top of the ninth, driving in the tying and winning runs for Baltimore, which trailed 3-2 going into the inning. It was Baltimore's eighth straight triumph over Washington this season and the Orioles' eighth victory in their last nine games.

Ramos Solid Favorite To Retain Title

MEXICO CITY (AP) — World featherweight boxing champion Sugar Ramos is a solid favorite for tonight's 15-round title bout with Rafiu King of Nigeria.

This will be the 21-year-old Cuban's first defense of the title he won from Davey Moore March 21 in Los Angeles with a 10th-round knockout. Moore died from injuries suffered in the fight.

A sellout crowd of 23,500, paying as much as $40 a ticket, is expected to see the outdoor bout in a bullring just outside the capital. Promoter Pablo Ochoa expects a gate of $160,000.

Ramos will get $40,000. King's share is $10,000 plus expenses.

The 26-year-old challenger predicts victory by a decision. He is ranked No. 1 by the World Boxing Asociation and No. 4 by Ring Magazine.

Ramos beat King by a disputed decision in a 10-round match in Paris last year. That loss was one of three suffered by King in 48 fights. He has one draw.

King is expected to go into the fight just under the 126-pound limit. Ramos is right on top of it and spent Friday sweating it off for this morning's weigh-in.

In case of a rain-out, the bout will be held Sunday. This is the rainy season and early evening showers are common, but the weathermen have predicted a clear night with temperatures in the high 60s at fight time.

Wilson Hurls One-Hitter In East End Win

East End moved past Local 647, 5-0, in the Chester City Softball League Friday with Wilson missing a no-hitter by a whisker.

Facing only 23 batters, he fanned eight and yielded a lone single to Cannon of Local 647 in the fifth inning. Veteran Chick McMillan was behind the plate.

Cannon was the losing pitcher. East End collected four hits, one a double by Anderson.

The League All - Stars will meet Warren at Steubenville Sunday at 6:30, followed by a game between Steubenville and Youngstown at 8:30.

Wynn Again Sets Sights On 300th In Game Today

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Cleveland Indians and Early Wynn had their sights set again today on the 43-year-old right-hander's 300th victory.

Wynn was booked to start one game of the double-header against Kansas City. The clubs were rained out Friday night.

Possibly in the hard-luck Wynn's favor today was the return of Dick Howser to shortstop after recovering from a pulled hamstring muscle that idled him three weeks.

What's so important about Howser, batting only .230?

"He's a professional leadoff man," says Manager Birdie Tebbetts. "But he can be even better. Howser walked more than 100 times in his rookie year of 1961 and should do that without trouble."

Jack Kralick was after his ninth victory for the Indians in the other game. Moe Drabowsky and Diego Segui were the A's nominees.

Opperman, Lunn Vie In Publinx Golf Final

By DICK BARNES
Associated Press Sports Writer

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Steve Oppermann and Bob Lunn, two powerful young San Francisco golfing acquaintances who never had met in match play, tangle at 36 holes today for the National Public Links Championship.

Opperman, a 6-foot 195-pounder who spent the last 3½ years "just playing golf," unleashed his deadly irons on the back nine of Friday's second semifinal round for a 4 and 3 victory over veteran Dante Vicini of Ottawa, Ill.

Lunn, nearly two inches taller but 15 pounds lighter, ousted hometown favorite Jerry Yuke 3 and 1 by dropping birdie putts on two of the last three holes.

Neither Lunn, an 18-year-old who couldn't even win the city high school title this year, nor Oppermann, 21, would admit to any shakiness at the prospect of playing for the most important title of their young careers.

"I play the course, not the man," said Lunn. "I just try to keep from making any bogies." He succeeded over the final 17 holes of his 35-hole semifinal match.

Oppermann said he does the same, but added he prefers medal play to the match play format of the publinx.

Koufax Baffles Mets, 6-0, As Dodgers Nail 5-Game Lead

Yastrzemski's Homer Powers Bosox Into 2nd Place

Phils Jolt Giants, 7-5; Cardinals Cubs And Pirates Victors

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

"I was scared to death I'd never pitch again."

That's Sandy Koufax, remembering how things were exactly a year ago.

The brilliant left-hander was in the middle of a spectacular season and the Los Angeles Dodgers were sailing ahead in the National League race on July 12, 1962 at the Polo Grounds in New York.

A numb index finger on his pitching hand forced Koufax to the sidelines after he had blanked the Mets through seven innings. He was credited with the victory —his 14th—but it was his last of the year. The circulatory ailment later idled him for over two months, and the Dodgers wound up losing the pennant to the San Francisco Giants.

But the frightened and disabled Koufax of a year ago is now the hottest pitcher in baseball—a fact he emphasized Friday night, on the anniversary of that dark chapter in his career.

Again at the Polo Grounds and again facing the Mets, he fired a three-hit 6-0 triumph. The shutout was his third in a row and ninth of the season; the victory his eighth straight and 15th of the year—high in the majors. His 13 strikeouts boosted his total to 163, tops in the big leagues, and he lowered his earned run average to 1.64 in his 13th complete game.

The Dodgers? They've won five in succession and have a five-game grip on first place.

St. Louis beat Milwaukee 5-3; Chicago trimmed Cincinnati 4-1 and Pittsburgh shaded Houston 2-1.

The Phils rapped Jack Sanford for four runs in the first inning and three in the fifth, with doubles by Roy Sievers, Don Demeter and Clay Dalrymple the telling blows. McCovey smacked two-run homers for the Giants in the third and eighth—his 25th and 26th—and Harvey Kuenn homered for San Francisco in the eighth. Winner Art Mahaffey was chased in the eighth, but Jack Baldschun checked the Giants the rest of the way.

The Cardinals clinched it with a four-run third inning, capped by Gary Kolb's first major league homer. Bob Gibson won his ninth, with relief from Barney Schultz, and Tony Cloninger was the loser. Gene Oliver and Mack Jones homered for Milwaukee.

The Cubs collected 13 hits in dealing southpaw Jim O'Toole his fourth straight loss. Ernie Banks had a homer in the Cub attack, the 351st of his career for a seventh-place tie with Ralph Kiner on the all-time National League list. Bob Buhl was the winning pitcher, beating the Reds for only the second time in his 11 NL seasons.

Pittsburgh overcame Houston with two runs in the sixth on Dick Schofield's homer and successive singles by Roberto Clemente, Bill Mazeroski and Willie Stargell. Don Schwall got the pitching victory and Bob Bruce was the loser.

Goodballet, McVey Team In No-Hitter

Mike Goodballet and Mike McVey joined forces for Burbick's to record a no-hit shutout victory over Golden Star in the Pony League Friday at Dopler Field.

With each flipping hitless ball for three innings, Burbick's raced away to a 17-0 victory. The Dairymen sent only 18 batters to the plate and 11 struck out.

Burbick's collected 16 hits off three Golden Star pitchers — 11 off starter Hasala, two off Diddle and three off Talbott. Hasala got the loss.

Goodballet socked two home runs besides sharing in the no-hitter, while Jones also hit two round-trippers. Kidder, Goodballet, McVey and Klembara each had doubles.

Jones and Goodballet drove in 11 of Burbick's 17 runs. The game was called after two outs in Golden Star's half of the final inning.

In another game, George Bright's stopped Litten's, 7-3, on Stewart's six - hitter. Stoddard, Lyle and Hall hurled for Litten's, and Lyle got the loss in yielding six runs in three innings.

Moore had three hits for Bright's, while Lowe had a pair for the losers.

Yanks Nip Angels, 4-3, Lead By 5½; Tigers And Orioles Win

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The first time Ted Williams saw Carl Yastrzemski swing a bat, he made one of his rare predictions: "Don't let anyone change his swing and he'll be a great hitter."

No one has, and Yaz is beginning to make Boston's old batting master look like an oracle.

Yaz lashed an opposite field home run in the top of the 12th inning Friday night and powered the Red Sox past Minnesota 3-2 and into second place.

The Chicago White Sox, 7-6 losers to Detroit in 12 innings, slipped to third, a half game behind Boston and six behind the leading New York Yankees.

The Yanks, powered by Yogi Berra's three-run homer, solved old nemesis Ken McBride and the Los Angeles Angels 4-3. Baltimore beat Washington by the same score. Cleveland at Kansas City was rained out.

Yastrzemski, 23, a student at Notre Dame in the off-season, is in his third season as Williams' successor in left field for Boston and is off to his finest year. He leads the league in hitting, .344, and doubles, 23, is second in hits, 104, has a very respectable one runs batted in and possesses one of the best arms in the league.

Berra's sixth inning homer off McBride brought the Yanks from behind, but they needed a ninth inning run to make it stand up when the Angels ralled on Charley Dees two-run double.

It was the Angels' 10th straight loss and the first time McBride had lost to the Yankees since Aug. 7, 1961.

Bill Freehan singled in Rocky Colavito with the Tigers' 12th inning run, singled in another run and had a solo homer.

John Orsino belted a two-run homer in the top of the ninth, driving in the tying and winning runs for Baltimore, which trailed 3-2 going into the inning. It was Baltimore's eighth straight triumph over Washington this season and the Orioles' eighth victory in their last nine games.

Ramos Solid Favorite To Retain Title

This will be the 21-year-old Cuban's first defense of the title he won from Davey Moore March 21 in Los Angeles with a 10th-round knockout. Moore died from injuries suffered in the fight.

A sellout crowd of 23,500, paying as much as $40 a ticket, is expected to see the outdoor bout in a bullring just outside the capital. Promoter Pablo Ochoa expects a gate of $160,000.

Ramos will get $40,000. King's share is $10,000 plus expenses.

The 26-year-old challenger predicts victory by a decision. He is ranked No. 1 by the World Boxing Asociation and No. 4 by Ring Magazine.

Ramos beat King by a disputed decision in a 10-round match in Paris last year. That loss was one of three suffered by King in 48 fights. He has one draw.

King is expected to go into the fight just under the 126-pound limit. Ramos is right on top of it and spent Friday sweating it off for this morning's weigh-in.

In case of a rain-out, the bout will be held Sunday. This is the rainy season and early evening showers are common, but the weathermen have predicted a clear night with temperatures in the high 60s at fight time.

Wynn Again Sets Sights On 300th In Game Today

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Cleveland Indians and Early Wynn had their sights set again today on the 43-year-old right-hander's 300th victory.

Wynn was booked to start one game of the double-header against Kansas City. The clubs were rained out Friday night.

Possibly in the hard-luck Wynn's favor today was the return of Dick Howser to shortstop after recovering from a pulled hamstring muscle that idled him three weeks.

What's so important about Howser, batting only .230?

"He's a professional leadoff man," says Manager Birdie Tebbetts. "But he can be even better. Howser walked more than 100 times in his rookie year of 1961 and should do that without trouble."

Jack Kralick was after his ninth victory for the Indians in the other game. Moe Drabowsky and Diego Segui were the A's nominees.

McBurney's Win National Division In Little League

McBurney's sewed up the National League championship of the Little League Friday in pounding Burbick's, 10-1.

Rick Steffen pitched McBurney's to the National League title in winning the third and deciding game of the best-of-three playoff series.

Burbick's had won the first game, 4-0, behind Paul Berhar's perfect pitching, but McBurney's came back to sweep the next two.

Belting 14 base hits, McBurney's scored five runs in the opening frame, added two more in the fourth, and three in the sixth to win decisively.

Steffen, fanning four and walking none, allowed one run in the third inning and scattered nine hits. Bruce Diddle, with two strikeouts, was the losing pitcher.

Phil Hickman and Dan Myers socked doubles and a pair of singles each to lead McBurney's, while Don Hancock had three singles and Bernard Lovejoy homered.

Hickman was injured in scoring the first run for McBurney's, but stayed in action for five innings until retiring in favor of a base runner.

Paul (No Hit) Berhar and Steve Logston had a double and single each for Burbick's, while Mickey Lowry had two singles.

Rodgers Faces Charles In 36-Hole British Open Playoff

2 Bogey 5's Mar Chance For Nicklaus

By TOM REEDY

ST. ANNES, England (AP)—Butterball Phil Rodgers of La Jolla, Calif., and skinny left-handed Bob Charles of New Zealand met today in a 36-hole playoff for the British Open Golf Championship and a crack at a fortune.

The winner qualifies for the Akron, Ohio "World Series" in September, which carries a first prize of $50,000.

Rodgers, 25-year-old ex-Marine who is perky and porky at 5-foot-8 and 200 pounds, shot 67-68-73-69 for 277 Friday. The 23-year-old Charles, who is 6-feet and weighs only 140, put together 68-72-66-71 for his 277.

Jack Nicklaus, U.S. Masters champion lost a great chance at the title by taking bogey 5s on the 17th and 18th holes of the final round for 278. He had 71-67-70-70.

Rodgers and Charles knew they had to finish 3-4-4, one birdie and two pars, to catch Nicklaus and they did just that.

The thrilling finish enthralled a gallery of 5,000 under brilliant sunshine and ideal playing conditions on the 6,757 yard, par 70 Royal Lytham and St. Annes links.

The playoff repeated history. Five years ago, Peter Thomson of Australia tied Dave Thomas of Britain on this very course and went on to win his fourth British Open title. Thomson finished badly with a 78 Friday to rack up 285 for fifth place. Just ahead of him was Kel Nagle, the 1960 Open king, with 283.

Gone from the scene was Arnold Palmer, winner the last two years. The leading American money winner never got started at Royal Lytham and finished in a tie for 26th place with 76-71-71-76—294. He said afterwards:

"I'm tired. I'll play in the U.S. PGA and then I may take another rest."

Richmond Wins In 19th, Longest In IL Since '48

By The Associated Press

It took 19 innings but Richmond finally beat Jacksonville in the International League's longest game since 1948.

The Virginians scored three runs in the top of the 19th Friday night to defeat the Suns 5-2, dropping Jacksonville a game lower in the Southern Division cellar.

Atlanta derailed the Arkansas Travelers 3-1 to protect its two-game lead in the Southern Division. Syracuse saw its Northern Division lead cut to three games by Indianapolis, 4-0. Buffalo beat Toronto 5-2 and Columbus defeated Rochester 7-5 in 10 innings.

The Richmond - Jacksonville game was the longest in the league since Jersey City played a 23-inning game at Rochester in 1948. The game, which required four hours and 50 minutes to play, was the Suns' eighth straight loss.

Rochester and Columbus entered the 10th inning of their game tied 3-3. Then the Jets unloaded four runs on a single, a walk, a triple by Rex Johnston and a homer by Gary Rushing. Joe Altobelli homered with a man on base for Rochester in the bottom of the 10th.

'Only Aiming At 20,' Sandy Koufax Declares

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—"The only figure I'm aiming at is 20," Sandy Koufax said today, "and as for shutouts, I never think about them. My only thought is to go into the ninth inning with as big a lead as possible and the best way to do that is to give up as few runs as possible."

1. Made him the majors' top winner with a 15-3 record.

2. Produced his third consecutive shutout and ninth of the season.

3. Reduced his earned run average to 1.64, best among the starting pitchers in baseball.

4. Boosted his major league-leading strikeout total to 163.

5. Stretched the Dodgers' winning streak to five and increased their National League lead to five games over the second place San Francisco Giants, 7-5 losers at Philadelphia.

Although he's halfway to becoming the first 30-game winner in the majors since Dizzy Dean did it 30 years ago, Koufax would have no part of such speculation.

"I have no figure dancing in my head except 20," he said. "When you win 20 games, you're a top pitcher. Anything after that is so much gravy. All I'm trying to do is win."

Despite his emergence in the last three years as one of the pitching masters in baseball, the Brooklyn-born Koufax never has won 20. He got to 18 in 1961. A year ago Friday night, he won his 14th game. Then, in the seventh inning of a budding shutout against the Mets, the index finger of his left hand became so numb he had to leave the game. He was out of action with the circulatory ailment two months, and never won another game. Without him the Dodgers blew a pennant they seemed to have locked up.

Lawrenceville Blasts Hanover Nine, 15-6

Brewer fanned 11 and bested T. Smith.

Jay Wedgewood had four hits in five trips for Lawrenceville, including a homer. D. Williamson had a grand slam homer for Hanover.

In another game, Frankfort beat Georgetown, 12-7. Stevens got the mound victory and hit a homer. Laughlin was the losing pitcher, and Dawson had a homer for Georgetown.

Mrs. Barbara Brown, a housewife from New York, scored 4,192 points for second. Joyce Lawson of Santa Ana, Calif., was third with 3,901 and 16-year-old Eleanor Montgomery of Cleveland was fourth with 3,860.

Defending Champ, Medalist Eliminated

Surviving 4 Eye Ohio Golf Crown

ELYRIA, Ohio (AP)—A quaint quartet, none new to golfdom's throne rooms, wheeled into today's 36-hole semifinal matches in the 57th Ohio Amateur championship at Elyria Country Club.

Scattered in their wake after Friday's two 18-hole rounds were such talented stars as defending champion Tony Blom Jr. of Cincinnati and medalist Jim Brown of Martins Ferry.

Today's program in which the two-man cast for Sunday's 36-hole championship round would be decided sent Dan Carmichael, 44, of Columbus against Carl Unis, 25, a Cleveland public links entrant, and Bob Bourne Jr, 19, of Oberlin against Paul Minnich, 31, of Elyria.

Carmichael, who had a 27-hole no- bogey string Friday until the 17th hole of his quarterfinals match is an architect, winner of the 1960 title, a jet pilot, sports car racing driver, and a naval air ace of World War II with 15 Jap planes to his credit.

Unis, a long hitter, won the district caddy title on this course eight years ago, but Carmichael's steady play was expected to turn him back and erase the last of the 24 public course contestants.

Bourne, a blond bomber from the tees and a precision putter, won the 1962 Mid-American Junion match play crown, and is a student at the University of Houston.

Minnich, who manufactures business forms, was on Notre Dame's varsity for two years and has held the host club championship four times.

Carmichael overcame a two-two-hole deficit Friday to defeat Blom 3 and 2 and came back with a 2-up win over Karl Schmidt of Akron. Schmidt, a retired Marine Colonel, holed birdie putts of 40, 23 and 35 feet, but Carmichael wound up with a two-under-par 70.

Unis eased by Cleveland's Bill Petersen 2 and 1, then had the same margin over Pandel Savic of Columbus.

Bourne triumphed 3 and 2 over Bob Hoag of Columbus, then birdied the last hole with a 20-foot putt to sideline medalist Brown, Ohio State cager and No. 1 golfer, 1 up.

Minnich won 3 and 2 over Vince Cirigliano, Cleveland oil salesman, then tossed a four-birdie barrage for a 1 up victory over Walter Stahl of Cleveland, the 1961 champion.

Green Boots 4 Home, Total Raised To 22

Jockey Floyd Green, perennial champion here for the past four seasons, again dominated the card when he came in front on all of his first four mounts of the day Friday at Waterford Park.

The consistent rider swelled his total wins to 22 when he rode Sweep Tide to victory in the sixth race to keep his record clean for the day. The winner returned $4.40.

The champ did not have a mount in the first race but rode Lin Lo to a hard-fought half-length decision to take the second at a mutuel of $4.

He came back in the third race to win by a nose aboard the favored Go and Hide for a payoff of $3.40. Green had no mount in the fourth race but gave a terrific exhibition astride Broadway Sam in the fifth race to win by a length and return his backers $8.40.

Foreign Aid, under a well rated ride by apprentice jockey Wayne Gee, came down in front in the first race to start the daily double combination of number five in the first and number eight, Lin Lo, in the second that returned $33.20.

Putt, Miss Smith Win In Country Club Golf

Putt carded 39 to sweep the boys' first division, with Miss Smith scoring 100 over nine holes to win in the first division for girls.

Following Putt were Bill Pickin, 42, and Bob Kelly, 45. In the second division, Chris Burnett led with 54, followed by Scotty Purinton, 55, and Bill Sturgeon, 58.

Salineville Man's Car Hits Deer Near Lisbon

The front of a Salineville area motorist's car was damaged when it struck and killed a large buck deer on Route 154 almost a mile east of Lisbon at 3:30 a.m. today.

The State Highway Patrol at Lisbon said the animal was struck by an east bound car driven by Frank D. Lindesmith, 26, of Salineville R.D. 3.

The carcass was turned over to the Trumbull County game warden for disposal, officers said.

Veteran Car Race Driver To Double In Boat Racing

By JERRY GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

DETROIT (AP)—"On the very first lap I almost climbed out of the cockpit and said the hell with it. Then I got adjusted."

He liked it and plans to double up as a driver in top powerboat races.

"I'm very sincere about it," said Sachs, whose outspoken criticism of winner Parnelli Jones after this year's Indianapolis 500 provoked a fistfight between them. "I'm going boat racing."

Sachs steered the 11,000-pound Such Crust at straightaway speeds approaching 140 miles per hour in his first trial as a driver on water. Afterwards, Jack Schafer, Such Crust's owner, said the Indianapolis veteran probably would pilot the big hydroplane in the Diamond Cup at Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, July 27 and the Seattle Seafair two weeks later.

"I don't know what to do there," said Sachs before hopping into Such Crust and heading for his spin accompanied by Leo Mucutza, a veteran hydroplane driver and mechanic.

"That's the toughest thing I've ever come up against," said Sachs after his boatride of several laps around the three-mile course where the Gold Cup was held last Sunday. "I never dreamed it'd be this difficult as far as control is concerned.

"It's really a daring business. Things all over this world are coming at you. You have to have a real good pair of hands and arms to do it. I've got to get these wrists toughened up."

Sachs didn't touch Such Crust's gas pedal, letting Mucutza do it throughout the 30-minute run.

"He'll do it next time, he'll have full control," said Sachs' instructor.

Waterford Plans To Revert To Five-Day Week Program

Waterford Park will discontinue racing on Tuesdays, effective July 16, for the remainder of the summer meeting.

Approval to revert back to the five-day week that was in effect from March 16 through June 29 was given by the West Virginia Racing Commission after a conference with Eugene Frederick, chairman.

Harry R. Bell, general manager at Waterford, said "Due to the long schedule of racing days at Waterford Park this year, from March 16 and continuing through September 2, we feel that to provide larger and more attractive fields of thoroughbreds with sufficient racing for our patrons we should return to the five-day week that was operated successfully in the spring and early summer."

"We further feel this revised schedule will be accepted by all parties concerned," Bell added.

More than half of the U. S. presidents had military experience at some time in their lives —Washington, Monroe, Jackson, W. H. Harrison, Taylor, Pierce, Buchanan, Lincoln, Johnson, Grant, Hayes, Garfield, Arthur, Benjamin Harrison, McKinley, Theodore Roosevelt, Truman, Eisenhower and Kennedy.

Browns' Mentor Sees Triplett As Possible Starter

HIRAM, Ohio (AP) — Coach Blanton Collier of the Cleveland Browns says if back Mel Triplett can improve on pass catching, "I see no reason he couldn't be a starter."

The former New York Giants fullback is getting the once-over as a possible running mate for fullback Jim Brown. At 225 pounds, which is below his playing weight of last season with the Minnesota Vikings, Triplett has distinguished himself in his two days at the Browns' rookie training camp with is hard running.

Triplett, 32, declares he's fully recovered from a knee injury suffered near the end of last season.

Rookie camp closed today with a morning session. Those who impressed Collier will be invited to the regular camp starting July 22.

Rodgers Faces Charles In 36-Hole British Open Playoff

By TOM REEDY

ST. ANNES, England (AP)—Butterball Phil Rodgers of La Jolla, Calif., and skinny left-handed Bob Charles of New Zealand met today in a 36-hole playoff for the British Open Golf Championship and a crack at a fortune.

The winner qualifies for the Akron, Ohio "World Series" in September, which carries a first prize of $50,000.

Rodgers, 25-year-old ex-Marine who is perky and porky at 5-foot-8 and 200 pounds, shot 67-68-73-69 for 277 Friday. The 23-year-old Charles, who is 6-feet and weighs only 140, put together 68-72-66-71 for his 277.

Jack Nicklaus, U.S. Masters champion lost a great chance at the title by taking bogey 5s on the 17th and 18th holes of the final round for 278. He had 71-67-70-70.

Rodgers and Charles knew they had to finish 3-4-4, one birdie and two pars, to catch Nicklaus and they did just that.

The thrilling finish enthralled a gallery of 5,000 under brilliant sunshine and ideal playing conditions on the 6,757 yard, par 70 Royal Lytham and St. Annes links.

The playoff repeated history. Five years ago, Peter Thomson of Australia tied Dave Thomas of Britain on this very course and went on to win his fourth British Open title. Thomson finished badly with a 78 Friday to rack up 285 for fifth place. Just ahead of him was Kel Nagle, the 1960 Open king, with 283.

Gone from the scene was Arnold Palmer, winner the last two years. The leading American money winner never got started at Royal Lytham and finished in a tie for 26th place with 76-71-71-76—294. He said afterwards:

"I'm tired. I'll play in the U.S. PGA and then I may take another rest."

Richmond Wins In 19th, Longest In IL Since '48

By The Associated Press

The Virginians scored three runs in the top of the 19th Friday night to defeat the Suns 5-2, dropping Jacksonville a game lower in the Southern Division cellar.

Atlanta derailed the Arkansas Travelers 3-1 to protect its two-game lead in the Southern Division. Syracuse saw its Northern Division lead cut to three games by Indianapolis, 4-0. Buffalo beat Toronto 5-2 and Columbus defeated Rochester 7-5 in 10 innings.

The Richmond - Jacksonville game was the longest in the league since Jersey City played a 23-inning game at Rochester in 1948. The game, which required four hours and 50 minutes to play, was the Suns' eighth straight loss.

Rochester and Columbus entered the 10th inning of their game tied 3-3. Then the Jets unloaded four runs on a single, a walk, a triple by Rex Johnston and a homer by Gary Rushing. Joe Altobelli homered with a man on base for Rochester in the bottom of the 10th.

'Only Aiming At 20,' Sandy Koufax Declares

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—"The only figure I'm aiming at is 20," Sandy Koufax said today, "and as for shutouts, I never think about them. My only thought is to go into the ninth inning with as big a lead as possible and the best way to do that is to give up as few runs as possible."

1. Made him the majors' top winner with a 15-3 record.
2. Produced his third consecutive shutout and ninth of the season.
3. Reduced his earned run average to 1.64, best among the starting pitchers in baseball.
4. Boosted his major league-leading strikeout total to 163.
5. Stretched the Dodgers' winning streak to five and increased their National League lead to five games over the second place San Francisco Giants, 7-5 losers at Philadelphia.

Although he's halfway to becoming the first 30-game winner in the majors since Dizzy Dean did it 30 years ago, Koufax would have no part of such speculation.

"I have no figure dancing in my head except 20," he said. "When you win 20 games, you're a top pitcher. Anything after that is so much gravy. All I'm trying to do is win."

Despite his emergence in the last three years as one of the pitching masters in baseball, the Brooklyn-born Koufax never has won 20. He got to 18 in 1961. A year ago Friday night, he won his 14th game. Then, in the seventh inning of a budding shutout against the Mets, the index finger of his left hand became so numb he had to leave the game. He was out of action with the circulatory ailment two months, and never won another game. Without him the Dodgers blew a pennant they seemed to have locked up.

Lawrenceville Blasts Hanover Nine, 15-6

Brewer fanned 11 and bested T. Smith.

Jay Wedgewood had four hits in five trips for Lawrenceville, including a homer. D. Williamson had a grand slam homer for Hanover.

In another game, Frankfort beat Georgetown, 12-7. Stevens got the mound victory and hit a homer. Laughlin was the losing pitcher, and Dawson had a homer for Georgetown.

Mrs. Barbara Brown, a housewife from New York, scored 4,192 points for second. Joyce Lawson of Santa Ana, Calif., was third with 3,901 and 16-year-old Eleanor Montgomery of Cleveland was fourth with 3,860.

Defending Champ, Medalist Eliminated

Surviving 4 Eye Ohio Golf Crown

ELYRIA, Ohio (AP)—A quaint quartet, none new to golfdom's throne rooms, wheeled into today's 36-hole semifinal matches in the 57th Ohio Amateur championship at Elyria Country Club.

Scattered in their wake after Friday's two 18-hole rounds were such talented stars as defending champion Tony Blom Jr. of Cincinnati and medalist Jim Brown of Martins Ferry.

Today's program in which the two-man cast for Sunday's 36-hole championship round would be decided sent Dan Carmichael, 41, of Columbus against Carl Unis, 25, a Cleveland public links entrant, and Bob Bourne Jr, 19, of Oberlin against Paul Minnich, 31, of Elyria.

Carmichael, who had a 27-hole no- bogey string Friday until the 17th hole of his quarterfinals match is an architect, winner of the 1960 title, a jet pilot, sports car racing driver, and a naval air ace of World War II with 15 Jap planes to his credit.

Unis, a long hitter, won the district caddy title on this course eight years ago, but Carmichael's steady play was expected to turn him back and erase the last of the 24 public course contestants.

Bourne, a blond bomber from the tees and a precision putter, won the 1962 Mid-American Junion match play crown, and is a student at the University of Houston.

Minnich, who manufactures business forms, was on Notre Dame's varsity for two years and has held the host club championship four times.

Carmichael overcame a two-two-hole deficit Friday to defeat Blom 3 and 2 and came back with a 2-up win over Karl Schmidt of Akron. Schmidt, a retired Marine Colonel, holed birdie putts of 40, 23 and 35 feet, but Carmichael wound up with a two-under-par 70.

Unis eased by Cleveland's Bill Petersen 2 and 1, then had the same margin over Pandel Savic of Columbus.

Bourne triumphed 3 and 2 over Bob Hoag of Columbus, then birdied the last hole with a 20-foot putt to sideline medalist Brown, Ohio State cager and No. 1 golfer, 1 up.

Minnich won 3 and 2 over Vince Cirigliano, Cleveland oil salesman, then tossed a four-birdie barrage for a 1 up victory over Walter Stahl of Cleveland, the 1961 champion.

Green Boots 4 Home, Total Raised To 22

Jockey Floyd Green, perennial champion here for the past four seasons, again dominated the card when he came in front on all of his first four mounts of the day Friday at Waterford Park.

The consistent rider swelled his total wins to 22 when he rode Sweep Tide to victory in the sixth race to keep his record clean for the day. The winner returned $4.40.

The champ did not have a mount in the first race but rode Lin Lo to a hard-fought half-length decision to take the second at a mutuel of $4.

He came back in the third race to win by a nose aboard the favored Go and Hide for a payoff of $3.40. Green had no mount in the fourth race but gave a terrific exhibition astride Broadway Sam in the fifth race to win by a length and return his backers $8.40.

Foreign Aid, under a well rated ride by apprentice jockey Wayne Gee, came down in front in the first race to start the daily double combination of number five in the first and number eight, Lin Lo, in the second that returned $33.20.

Putt, Miss Smith Win In Country Club Golf

Putt carded 39 to sweep the boys' first division, with Miss Smith scoring 100 over nine holes to win in the first division for girls.

Following Putt were Bill Pickin, 42, and Bob Kelly, 45. In the second division, Chris Burnett led with 54, followed by Scotty Purinton, 55, and Bill Sturgeon, 58.

Salineville Man's Car Hits Deer Near Lisbon

The front of a Salineville area motorist's car was damaged when it struck and killed a large buck deer on Route 154 almost a mile east of Lisbon at 3:30 a.m. today.

The State Highway Patrol at Lisbon said the animal was struck by an east bound car driven by Frank D. Lindesmith, 26, of Salineville R.D. 3.

The carcass was turned over to the Trumbull County game warden for disposal, officers said.

Veteran Car Race Driver To Double In Boat Racing

By JERRY GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

DETROIT (AP)—"On the very first lap I almost climbed out of the cockpit and said the hell with it. Then I got adjusted."

He liked it and plans to double up as a driver in top powerboat races.

"I'm very sincere about it," said Sachs, whose outspoken criticism of winner Parnelli Jones after this year's Indianapolis 500 provoked a fistfight between them. "I'm going boat racing."

Sachs steered the 11,000-pound Such Crust at straightaway speeds approaching 140 miles per hour in his first trial as a driver on water. Afterwards, Jack Schafer, Such Crust's owner, said the Indianapolis veteran probably would pilot the big hydroplane in the Diamond Cup at Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, July 27 and the Seattle Seafair two weeks later.

"I don't know what to do there," said Sachs before hopping into Such Crust and heading for his spin accompanied by Leo Mucutza, a veteran hydroplane driver and mechanic.

"That's the toughest thing I've ever come up against," said Sachs after his boatride of several laps around the three-mile course where the Gold Cup was held last Sunday. "I never dreamed it'd be this difficult as far as control is concerned.

"It's really a daring business. Things all over this world are coming at you. You have to have a real good pair of hands and arms to do it. I've got to get these wrists toughened up."

Sachs didn't touch Such Crust's gas pedal, letting Mucutza do it throughout the 30-minute run.

"He'll do it next time, he'll have full control," said Sachs' instructor.

Waterford Plans To Revert To Five-Day Week Program

Waterford Park will discontinue racing on Tuesdays, effective July 16, for the remainder of the summer meeting.

Approval to revert back to the five-day week that was in effect from March 16 through June 29 was given by the West Virginia Racing Commission after a conference with Eugene Frederick, chairman.

Harry R. Bell, general manager at Waterford, said "Due to the long schedule of racing days at Waterford Park this year, from March 16 and continuing through September 2, we feel that to provide larger and more attractive fields of thoroughbreds with sufficient racing for our patrons we should return to the five-day week that was operated successfully in the spring and early summer."

"We further feel this revised schedule will be accepted by all parties concerned," Bell added.

More than half of the U. S. presidents had military experience at some time in their lives —Washington, Monroe, Jackson, W. H. Harrison, Taylor, Pierce, Buchanan, Lincoln, Johnson, Grant, Hayes, Garfield, Arthur, Benjamin Harrison, McKinley, Theodore Roosevelt, Truman, Eisenhower and Kennedy.

Browns' Mentor Sees Triplett As Possible Starter

HIRAM, Ohio (AP) — Coach Blanton Collier of the Cleveland Browns says if back Mel Triplett can improve on pass catching, "I see no reason he couldn't be a starter."

The former New York Giants fullback is getting the once-over as a possible running mate for fullback Jim Brown. At 225 pounds, which is below his playing weight of last season with the Minnesota Vikings, Triplett has distinguished himself in his two days at the Browns' rookie training camp with is hard running.

Triplett, 32, declares he's fully recovered from a knee injury suffered near the end of last season.

Driver Fined On 2 Charges

George Mott, 28, of Lawrenceville was fined $25 and costs on a charge of failure to have his vehicle under control and $10 and costs on a charge of lacking a West Virginia driver's license at a hearing Friday night before Chester Mayor Harry Abrams.

Mott was cited Monday afternoon on Pyramus St., Chester, by Officer Clifford Bebout following a collision between his car and one driven by Miss Louise Lightner of Lawrenceville.

He pleaded not guilty to the first charge and guilty to the second.

Emeric D. Scarsella, 23, of Industry, who was cited Monday afternoon on Carolina Ave. by Officer Bebout after his auto ran into the rear of a car driven by Lewis McIntosh, 27, of 1031 Center St., Wellsville, pleaded guilty to a charge of failure to have his vehicle under control and was fined $10 and costs.

Reports Conflict After Crash Of Auto, 2 Bicycles

Two East End youngsters told police late Friday afternoon they escaped injury but their bicycles were damaged when struck by a backing auto, but the driver denied the accusation, claiming they ran into his parked car, police reported.

Police said Gay Lutton, 9, of 1725 Holliday St. and Jody Armstrong, 10, of 1741 Holliday St. reported at 5:39 p. m. they were riding their bikes at Holliday and Walters Sts. when a car bearing license L-1341-F backed into them.

The girls said they were not injured but the bicycles were damaged.

"The man driving the car didn't stop to inquire about us," they told police.

However, Leroy Hoppel of Valley Dr., driver of the car, told police he was parked when the girls ran their bikes into the rear of his auto.

Police said Peter Boyd, 1643 Holliday St., and Earl Taylor, 455 Densmore Ave., who were in the auto, agreed with Hoppel's statement.

Melvin Explains Rules On Refuse

The incinerator department appealed again today to residents not to set out tree trimmings and hedges for collection with normal trash and garbage.

Supt. John Melvin said the department crews cannot pick up hedge and tree trimmings, explaining it slows down the normal collection and throws the crews behind schedule.

Private haulers should be contacted, Melvin said, for removal of such debris.

During the special cleanup week in May, the department had additional manpower and extra trucks so that it could pick up hedge and tree trimmings, he said.

Birns Released On $50,000 Bond In Gold's Slaying Case

CLEVELAND (AP) — Alex (Shondor) Birns was free on $50,000 bond today after spending less than a day and a half in jail for questioning in the slaying of investment promoter Mervin L. Gold.

A decision was expected in Common Pleas Criminal Court today by Judge William K. Thomas on whether to reduce the amount of Birns' bond. The bond was set by Cuyahoga County Coroner Samuel Gerber to assure Birns presence at an inquest into Gold's death, scheduled for next Wednesday.

Birns, 58, was released late Friday after the second of his two court appearances. In the morning session he won his freedom on a writ of habeas corpus.

In the afternoon session, Brins' lawyer sought to have the bond reduced to personal bond, involving no cash.

"There is no charge against Birns," he argued. "He is held only for investigation, and there is no such crime."

Sheriff's deputies scoured Geauga County Friday in an effort to locate the scene of the Gold slaying. Carrying search warrants, they visited the home of a cohort of Birns and said they found no important evidence. They also searched motels in the Bainbridge area.

A file cabinet taken from Birns' home was opened in the office of Cleveland Police Chief Richard Wagner. In it were two revolvers and papers detectives said were of a "business type, the kind you'd usually throw away."

Gold was found beaten, strangled and shot in the trunk of his car in suburban solon Monday night.

Brothers Face Quiz On Other Burglaries

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Two brothers arrested here on burglary charges are to be questioned about similar crimes at Danville and Champaign, Ill., according to the Montgomery County sheriff's office.

Joseph Claude Murray, 48, of Hamilton (Ohio) and Lemuel William Murray of Rt. 1, Danville, Ill., were picked up Friday by rookie policeman D. L. Michael. Michale noticed the rear of their car was riding low.

After stopping the car, Michael found a safe in the trunk that had been stolen from the Highway Equipment Co. here. The safe contained $320, but had not been opened.

Birns Released On $50,000 Bond In Gold's Slaying Case

CLEVELAND (AP) — Alex (Shondor) Birns was free on $50,000 bond today after spending less than a day and a half in jail for questioning in the slaying of investment promoter Mervin L. Gold.

A decision was expected in Common Pleas Criminal Court today by Judge William K. Thomas on whether to reduce the amount of Birns' bond. The bond was set by Cuyahoga County Coroner Samuel Gerber to assure Birns presence at an inquest into Gold's death, scheduled for next Wednesday.

Birns, 58, was released late Friday after the second of his two court appearances. In the morning session he won his freedom on a writ of habeas corpus.

In the afternoon session, Brins' lawyer sought to have the bond reduced to personal bond, involving no cash.

"There is no charge against Birns," he argued. "He is held only for investigation, and there is no such crime."

Sheriff's deputies scoured Geauga County Friday in an effort to locate the scene of the Gold slaying. Carrying search warrants, they visited the home of a cohort of Birns and said they found no important evidence. They also searched motels in the Bainbridge area.

A file cabinet taken from Birns' home was opened in the office of Cleveland Police Chief Richard Wagner. In it were two revolvers and papers detectives said were of a "business type, the kind you'd usually throw away."

Gold was found beaten, strangled and shot in the trunk of his car in suburban solon Monday night.

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Two brothers arrested here on burglary charges are to be questioned about similar crimes at Danville and Champaign, Ill., according to the Montgomery County sheriff's office.

Joseph Claude Murray, 48, of Hamilton (Ohio) and Lemuel William Murray of Rt. 1, Danville, Ill., were picked up Friday by rookie policeman D. L. Michael. Michale noticed the rear of their car was riding low.

After stopping the car, Michael found a safe in the trunk that had been stolen from the Highway Equipment Co. here. The safe contained $320, but had not been opened.

Driver Fined On 2 Charges

George Mott, 28, of Lawrenceville was fined $25 and costs on a charge of failure to have his vehicle under control and $10 and costs on a charge of lacking a West Virginia driver's license at a hearing Friday night before Chester Mayor Harry Abrams.

Mott was cited Monday afternoon on Pyramus St., Chester, by Officer Clifford Bebout following a collision between his car and one driven by Miss Louise Lightner of Lawrenceville.

He pleaded not guilty to the first charge and guilty to the second.

Emeric D. Scarsella, 23, of Industry, who was cited Monday afternoon on Carolina Ave. by Officer Bebout after his auto ran into the rear of a car driven by Lewis McIntosh, 27, of 1031 Center St., Wellsville, pleaded guilty to a charge of failure to have his vehicle under control and was fined $10 and costs.

Reports Conflict After Crash Of Auto, 2 Bicycles

Two East End youngsters told police late Friday afternoon they escaped injury but their bicycles were damaged when struck by a backing auto, but the driver denied the accusation, claiming they ran into his parked car, police reported.

Police said Gay Lutton, 9, of 1725 Holliday St. and Jody Armstrong, 10, of 1741 Holliday St. reported at 5:39 p. m. they were riding their bikes at Holliday and Walters Sts. when a car bearing license L-1341-F backed into them.

The girls said they were not injured but the bicycles were damaged.

"The man driving the car didn't stop to inquire about us," they told police.

However, Leroy Hoppel of Valley Dr., driver of the car, told police he was parked when the girls ran their bikes into the rear of his auto.

Police said Peter Boyd, 1643 Holliday St., and Earl Taylor, 455 Densmore Ave., who were in the auto, agreed with Hoppel's statement.

Melvin Explains Rules On Refuse

The incineraior department appealed again today to residents not to set out tree trimmings and hedges for collection with normal trash and garbage.

Supt. John Melvin said the department crews cannot pick up hedge and tree trimmings, explaining it slows down the normal collection and throws the crews behind schedule.

Private haulers should be contacted, Melvin said, for removal of such debris.

During the special cleanup week in May, the department had additional manpower and extra trucks so that it could pick up hedge and tree trimmings, he said.

Council Will Act On Fund Bill Monday

Jury Deadlocks Without Decision On Auto Fatality

LISBON — A deadlocked jury of six men and six women was dismissed late Friday afternoon by Common Pleas Judge Joel H. Sharp after the panel reported it was deadlocked and could not reach a verdict in the case of Wayne Hillyer, 33, of Hanoverton, accused of second degree manslaughter in connection with the death of a patron when a tavern was struck by his auto.

Hillyer was on trial in connection with the death of Earl McIntosh, 43, of New Garden, who was crushed to death Jan. 13, 1962, when Hillyer's car struck the Midway Tavern in Hanoverton. The trial began Monday, recessed Tuesday and then continued the balance of the week. Fifteen witnesses were heard.

The case went to the jury yesterday morning at 11. The panel deliberated until 3, then returned to the courtroom and asked Judge Sharp to reread his charge on speeding and reckless operation —two of the allegations made by the prosecution.

Returning to the jury room, the panel emerged at 5:23 with the report it would be unable to reach a verdict. There was no indication when the case will be tried again.

NOW, THEREFORE,

SECTION 1. That it is necessary to improve in the City of East Liverpool, Ohio, St. Clair Avenue from Princeton Avenue to the north corporation line in cooperation with the Director of Highways of the State of Ohio.

SECTION 2. That said street shall be improved as shown on the plans hereinafter referred to and now on file in the office of the Clerk of Council of this City by grading, paving including integral curbing, and draining including necessary sewers for storm water, together with the necessary appurtenances thereto.

SECTION 3. It is hereby determined and declared that said improvement is conducive to the public health, convenience and welfare of said City and the inhabitants thereof. Council further finds and determines that the improvement has been petitioned for by the owners of a majority of the foot frontage of the property abutting upon St. Clair Avenue between the aforesaid termini.

SECTION 4. That the grade of said street and improvement shall be the grade as shown by the plans and profiles which have been prepared by the Engineer and which are made a part hereof.

SECTION 5. That the surveys, plans, specifications, profiles, cross-sections and estimates of the proposed improvement, heretofore prepared by the Engineer and now on file in the office of the Clerk of this Council, are hereby approved.

SECTION 6. That a portion of the cost of said improvement assumed by the City equivalent to $10.00 per foot front of all lots and lands bounding and abutting upon the proposed improvement shall be assessed by the foot front of said property on all lots and lands bounding and abutting upon the proposed improvement between the termini aforesaid, which said lots and lands are hereby determined to be specially benefited by said improvement; and the cost of said improvement shall include the cost of preliminary and other surveys, plans, specifications, profiles, cross-sections and estimates, and of printing, serving and publishing notices, resolutions and ordinances, the amount of damages resulting from the improvement assessed in favor of any owner of land affected by the improvement and the interest thereon, the costs incurred in connection with the preparation, levy and collection of the special assessments, the cost of purchasing, appropriating, and otherwise acquiring therefor any required real estate or interests therein, expenses of legal services including obtaining an approving legal opinion, cost of labor and material and interest on bonds and notes issued in anticipation of the levy and collection of the special assessments together with all other necessary expenditures.

SECTION 7. That the Engineer of this City be and he is hereby authorized and directed to prepare and file in the office of the Clerk of this Council the estimated assessments of the cost of the improvement described in this resolution. Such estimated assessments shall be based upon the estimate of cost of said improvement now on file in the office of the Clerk of this Council and shall be prepared pursuant to the provisions of this resolution. When such estimated assessments have been so filed, said Clerk shall cause notice of the adoption of this resolution and the filing of said estimated assessments to be served on the owners of all lots and lands to be assessed as provided in Revised Code Section 727.13.

SECTION 8. That the assessments to be levied shall be paid in ten annual installments, with interest on deferred payments at the same rate as shall be borne by the bonds to be issued in anticipation of the collection thereof; provided, that the owner of any property assessed may, at his option, pay such assessment in cash within thirty days after passage of the assessing ordinance.

SECTION 9. That bonds of the City shall be issued in anticipation of the collection of assessments by installments and in an amount equal thereto and notes of said City shall be issued in anticipation of the issuance of such bonds and the levy of such assessments.

SECTION 10. That the remainder of the entire cost of said improvement, after application of the assessments herein provided, shall be paid by the issuance of bonds in the manner provided by law or from other funds available for this purpose.

SECTION 11. This resolution is hereby declared to be an emergency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety of said City, and for the further reason that the immediate construction of said improvement is necessary to eliminate existing hazards to pedestrian and vehicular traffic; wherefore, this resolution shall be in full force and effect from and immediately after its passage and approval by the Mayor.

Jury Deadlocks Without Decision On Auto Fatality

LISBON — A deadlocked jury of six men and six women was dismissed late Friday afternoon by Common Pleas Judge Joel H. Sharp after the panel reported it was deadlocked and could not reach a verdict in the case of Wayne Hillyer, 33, of Hanoverton, accused of second degree manslaughter in connection with the death of a patron when a tavern was struck by his auto.

Hillyer was on trial in connection with the death of Earl McIntosh, 43, of New Garden, who was crushed to death Jan. 13, 1962, when Hillyer's car struck the Midway Tavern in Hanoverton. The trial began Monday, recessed Tuesday and then continued the balance of the week. Fifteen witnesses were heard.

The case went to the jury yesterday morning at 11. The panel deliberated until 3, then returned to the courtroom and asked Judge Sharp to reread his charge on speeding and reckless operation —two of the allegations made by the prosecution.

Returning to the jury room, the panel emerged at 5:23 with the report it would be unable to reach a verdict. There was no indication when the case will be tried again.

RESOLUTION NUMBER 22, 1963

A RESOLUTION DECLARING IT NECESSARY TO IMPROVE ST. CLAIR AVENUE, IN THE CITY OF EAST LIVERPOOL, OHIO, FROM PRINCETON AVENUE TO THE NORTH CORPORATION LINE IN COOPERATION WITH THE DIRECTOR OF HIGHWAYS OF THE STATE OF OHIO, BY GRADING, PAVING INCLUDING INTEGRAL CURBING, AND DRAINING INCLUDING NECESSARY SEWERS FOR STORM WATER, TOGETHER WITH THE NECESSARY APPURTENANCES THERETO, AND DECLARING AN EMERGENCY.

WHEREAS, the State of Ohio has indicated its intention to improve St. Clair Avenue between the termini hereinafter mentioned in accordance with surveys, plans, specifications, profiles, cross-sections and estimates approved by the Director of Highways of the State of Ohio and heretofore furnished by the City of East Liverpool; and

WHEREAS, the City has, by Ordinance No. 38, 1962, passed October 29, 1962, consented to such improvement and such Ordinance provides that the City will assume as its portion of the cost of said improvement fifty (50) per cent of the cost of construction and construction engineering and one hundred (100) per cent of all re-arrangements of City-owned utilities as may be necessary to conform to the said improvement and all other items not reimbursable by the Bureau of Public Roads; and

WHEREAS, Council has determined that a portion of the cost of said improvement so assumed by the City, as well as any other expense chargeable to the City and properly allocable to the proposed improvement, shall be assessed upon the lands and lots abutting upon the proposed improvement to the extent of ten dollars ($10.00) per foot of the frontage of each lot or parcel of land on St. Clair Avenue between the termini hereinafter mentioned and that the City shall bear the balance of the cost of said improvement, such balance being in excess of two per cent, together with the cost of intersections, with respect to the total City share of the improvement;

NOW, THEREFORE,

SECTION 1. That it is necessary to improve in the City of East Liverpool, Ohio, St. Clair Avenue from Princeton Avenue to the north corporation line in cooperation with the Director of Highways of the State of Ohio.

SECTION 2. That said street shall be improved as shown on the plans hereinafter referred to and now on file in the office of the Clerk of Council of this City by grading, paving including integral curbing, and draining including necessary sewers for storm water, together with the necessary appurtenances thereto.

SECTION 3. It is hereby determined and declared that said improvement is conducive to the public health, convenience and welfare of said City and the inhabitants thereof. Council further finds and determines that the improvement has been petitioned for by the owners of a majority of the foot frontage of the property abutting upon St. Clair Avenue between the aforesaid termini.

SECTION 4. That the grade of said street and improvement shall be the grade as shown by the plans and profiles which have been prepared by the Engineer and which are made a part hereof.

SECTION 5. That the surveys, plans, specifications, profiles, cross-sections and estimates of the proposed improvement, heretofore prepared by the Engineer and now on file in the office of the Clerk of this Council, are hereby approved.

SECTION 6. That a portion of the cost of said improvement assumed by the City equivalent to $10.00 per foot front of all lots and lands bounding and abutting upon the proposed improvement shall be assessed by the foot front of said property on all lots and lands bounding and abutting upon the proposed improvement between the termini aforesaid, which said lots and lands are hereby determined to be specially benefited by said improvement; and the cost of said improvement shall include the cost of preliminary and other surveys, plans, specifications, profiles, cross-sections and estimates, and of printing, serving and publishing notices, resolutions and ordinances, the amount of damages resulting from the improvement assessed in favor of any owner of land affected by the improvement and the interest thereon, the costs incurred in connection with the preparation, levy and collection of the special assessments, the cost of purchasing, appropriating, and otherwise acquiring therefor any required real estate or interests therein, expenses of legal services including obtaining an approving legal opinion, cost of labor and material and interest on bonds and notes issued in anticipation of the levy and collection of the special assessments together with all other necessary expenditures.

SECTION 7. That the Engineer of this City be and he is hereby authorized and directed to prepare and file in the office of the Clerk of this Council the estimated assessments of the cost of the improvement described in this resolution. Such estimated assessments shall be based upon the estimate of cost of said improvement now on file in the office of the Clerk of this Council and shall be prepared pursuant to the provisions of this resolution. When such estimated assessments have been so filed, said Clerk shall cause notice of the adoption of this resolution and the filing of said estimated assessments to be served on the owners of all lots and lands to be assessed as provided in Revised Code Section 727.13.

SECTION 8. That the assessments to be levied shall be paid in ten annual installments, with interest on deferred payments at the same rate as shall be borne by the bonds to be issued in anticipation of the collection thereof; provided, that the owner of any property assessed may, at his option, pay such assessment in cash within thirty days after passage of the assessing ordinance.

SECTION 9. That bonds of the City shall be issued in anticipation of the collection of assessments by installments and in an amount equal thereto and notes of said City shall be issued in anticipation of the issuance of such bonds and the levy of such assessments.

SECTION 10. That the remainder of the entire cost of said improvement, after application of the assessments herein provided, shall be paid by the issuance of bonds in the manner provided by law or from other funds available for this purpose.

SECTION 11. This resolution is hereby declared to be an emergency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety of said City, and for the further reason that the immediate construction of said improvement is necessary to eliminate existing hazards to pedestrian and vehicular traffic; wherefore, this resolution shall be in full force and effect from and immediately after its passage and approval by the Mayor.

Junior Editors Quiz on STEAMSHIPS

QUESTION: Who built the first steamships and steam turbines?

ANSWER: The story of the steamship really starts with the Scotchman James Watt's improvement on the steam engine idea, during the 1700's, which made steam engines practical for use on ships. (A) is from a sketch by Johnathan Hulls of London in 1736 and is said to be the first real step in steamship development. By 1783 the French had a steamboat running on the Saone River and John Fitch of America was operating a steamboat line on the Delaware River by 1790. We illustrate an early Fitch steamboat propelled by paddles. It worked, but was very slow.

None of these experiments really started the steamboat age; this honor was reserved for Robert Fulton's "Clermont," (C) which in 1807 steamed up the Hudson River from New York to Albany in 32 hours. Since it took sailing sloops four days to go this distance, this trip made history. The "Savannah" (D) used steam paddles to help her across the Atlantic in another historic trip in 1819. By 1839 John Ericsson had invented the screw propellor (E) and tried it out on his boat "Robert F. Stockton". Then came the steam turbine, first used by the Englishman Charles Parson in his "Turbinia,, in 1894. In this, the steam whirls many rotating blades and can give great speed. It is used by many liners.

FOR YOU TO DO: We have outlined the steamship story up to the turbine but there is another, more recently discovered kind of ship which also uses steam, but makes it in a different way. Can you guess? It's a ship run by a. e.

Bill Assesses Charges For Street Lights

An ordinance levying a special assessment of $1.43 per front foot to pay for the proposed street lighting improvement in the downtown business district was passed unanimously at a special meeting of City Council Friday night.

The assessments will be levied against owners of property in the business district where four-tube overhead fluorescent fixtures will be installed to replace the present lighting system.

The new lights will be erected on Market and Washington Sts. from 4th to 6th Sts.; 4th St. from Market St. to Cherry Alley; 5th St. from Peach Alley to Cherry Alley, and 6th St. from a point 150 feet west of Peach Alley to Washington St.

The total amount to be assessed is $8,213.66 per year for a 10-year period, with the foot frontage involved totaling 5,743.82. The rate was determined by dividing the foot frontage into the additional cost for the new system.

His letter showed a cost of $10,440 for 58 lights at $15 per month; $325 for legal services and $232.66 for publication costs and miscellaneous charges, a total of $10,977.66.

However, the city's present cost of $2,784 a year, based on $4 per light, will be deducted, leaving a net additional charge of $8,213.66.

The legislation provides the assessments levied after the first year will be adjusted in proportion, since the cost at the beginning of each year may vary. However, the rate will not exceed $1.68 per front foot.

Property owners can pay the assessment in cash within 30 days to the city treasurer or in 10 annual installments payable within 30 days after the anniversary date of the ordinance.

Assessments and installments remaining unpaid after the 30-day period will be certified to the county auditor's office for collection on the tax duplicate.

The Ohio Power Co. submitted a bid of $15 per light per month when the Board of Control, comprised of Mayor Bert H. Goodballet and Safety - Service Director Robert Owen opened bids July 2. The city was required by law to go through the formality of receiving bids although the utility was the only firm which could submit an offer.

The street lighting improvement was initiated by the downtown improvement committee of the East Liverpool Merchants Association, which circulated petitions and secured signatures of property owners agreeing to pay the additional cost.

Bank Run By Women Robbed, Pair Arrested

GREENBACK, Tenn. (AP) — The man stuck a gun in Mrs. Nola Elam's face, and demanded the money.

"I hesitated," Mrs. Elam said. "And I thought to myself—'I just don't believe I'll give it to him. This is getting too commonplace. . . .'"

But hand over the money she did Friday, and for the third time in the last eight months the little farm town's Merchants and Farmers Bank — operated solely by women—had been robbed.

This time, through quick action which has become habit with the women, police arrested two men at a roadblock less than 35 minutes later and recovered $7,200.

Last December it was $54,000, recovered in an hour. In March it was $44,470, which hasn't been found. Six men are serving prison terms for those holdups; four convicted of robbery, two of conspiracy.

Mrs. Elam, executive vice president and cashier, has a bookkeeper and two tellers, all women she considers calmer than men.

The bank has no alarm system; there is no police force to alert.

Greenback, which got its name not from cash but a political party, has a population of 400. Consequently, strangers are noticed.

"They looked suspicious to me when they walked in," Mrs. Elam said.

Then began the somewhat familiar routine: the gun, the sack, the warning. Mrs. Elam and Mrs. Cleo Mills, bookkeeper, followed orders of the nervous bandits and filled the bag with cash.

A few miles down the highway, officers arrested Merrill Mack Moser, 42, and Jack Fee, 39, former Tennesseans who have served terms in a California prison. In the car was $7,200, a pistol, shotgun and sunglasses like those the gunmen wore.

The two were identified by Mrs. Elam and taken to Knoxville where they were arraigned on bank robbery charges and jailed in lieu of $25,000 bond each.

SUMMER AND YOUR SEPTIC TANK

Surprising though it may seem, summer with its sunshine and showers, is just about the most critical time of the year for owners of septic tanks.

To correctly understand the aforementioned statement it is first necessary to analyze the workings of septic tanks, and the effect of seasonal changes.

Your septic tank is a chamber wherein exists a complex of micro-organisms, each type equipped to handle and dispose of different types of waste material. Working as a team, these infinitesimal forms of life break down and liquefy the solids, leaving only a liquid which is free to run out for final disposal in your drainfield or drywell. Regularly activated, these living "garbage disposals" will normally keep up with the flow of waste, and your system will function properly. However, surveys show that during the summer season, more systems "back-up" and overflow than at any other time of year, creating expensive and highly unsanitary conditions.

WHY ? ? ?

The answer to that question is simply "temperature". Bacterial life dislikes temperature changes, and, since your septic tank has no heating system to keep things cozy so that they can go about their work in comfort, they die off in the millions and billions when winter arrives, leaving only a "skeleton crew" of weakened bacteria to handle the heavy loads. Consequently, as winter months pass slowly by, a build-up of undigested grease and solids occurs, clogging the tank and passing through to the disposal fields. Grease congeals and deposits in the pores of the soil, almost to the point of being beyond repair. Melting ice, snow, and showers add to the problem by increasing the amount of water entering the system.

HOW SEA-CAL ENZYMES HELP

The powerful digestive powers of the enzymes contained in SEA-CAL rapidly liquefy the hard grease packs in the septic tanks and drainfields, changing such grease and other solids into available food for the bacteria. SEA-CAL also contains 80,000,000 anerobic bacteria per gram (28 grams in each ounce), and with each bacteria reproducing itself many times a day, the micro-organism population is rapidly built up to the adequate numbers, with the ultimate return of full operating efficiency.

Officers Check 3 Theft Reports

The Rev. S. H. Estel, 1637 Etruria St., told police the radio was stolen from his 1951 auto while it was parked in the entrance to his garage between 9 p.m. Monday and 2 p.m. yesterday.

Two disc hubcaps were stolen from a 1957 used car parked on their lot at 1600 Pennsylvania Ave. between 9 p.m. Thursday and 9 a.m. yesterday, officials of M. & A. Motors reported.

In a belated report, Gerace Brothers Produce, 223 W. 6th St., said a 5-ton hydraulic jack and 15 gallons of gasoline were removed the night of July 6 from a truck parked in the garage of the former Valley Produce Co. on Bradshaw Ave.

East End Mishap Damages 2 Cars

Two autos were damaged in an East End traffic mishap Friday at 11 p. m., but no one was injured, police reported.

The collision on Pennsylvania Ave. near Boyce St. involved a 1954 four-door sedan operated by Lewis Catagani, 33, of Calcutta and a 1962 two - door sedan driven by Victor Fray, 47, of 1830 Michigan Ave., officers said.

The crash damaged both doors on the right side of the Catagani car, along with the right rear fender. The front of the Dray car was damaged, police said.

The two drivers gave officers conflicting versions of the collision. Catagani said he halted to make a left turn and then proceeded when he was struck by a car that passed him on the right. Dray reported he was headed west on Pennsylvania Ave., intending to turn onto Park Way, when Dray pulled in front of him.

Last December it was $54,000, recovered in an hour. In March it was $44,470, which hasn't been found. Six men are serving prison terms for those holdups; four convicted of robbery, two of conspiracy.

Mrs. Elam, executive vice president and cashier, has a bookkeeper and two tellers, all women she considers calmer than men. The bank has no alarm system; there is no police force to alert.

Greenback, which got its name not from cash but a political party, has a population of 400. Consequently, strangers are noticed.

"They looked suspicious to me when they walked in," Mrs. Elam said.

Then began the somewhat familiar routine: the gun, the sack, the warning. Mrs. Elam and Mrs. Cleo Mills, bookkeeper, followed orders of the nervous bandits and filled the bag with cash.

As the pair fled in a car, a teller noted the color of the license plates, and a hometown girl got the number.

A few miles down the highway, officers arrested Merrill Mack Moser, 42, and Jack Fee, 39, former Tennesseans who have served terms in a California prison. In the car was $7,200, a pistol, shotgun and sunglasses like those the gunmen wore.

The two were identified by Mrs. Elam and taken to Knoxville where they were arraigned on bank robbery charges and jailed in lieu of $25,000 bond each.

SUMMER AND YOUR SEPTIC TANK

Surprising though it may seem, summer with its sunshine and showers, is just about the most critical time of the year for owners of septic tanks.

To correctly understand the aforementioned statement it is first necessary to analyze the workings of septic tanks, and the effect of seasonal changes.

Your septic tank is a chamber wherein exists a complex of micro-organisms, each type equipped to handle and dispose of different types of waste material. Working as a team, these infinitesimal forms of life break down and liquefy the solids, leaving only a liquid which is free to run out for final disposal in your drainfield or drywell. Regularly activated, these living "garbage disposals" will normally keep up with the flow of waste, and your system will function properly. However, surveys show that during the summer season, more systems "back-up" and overflow than at any other time of year, creating expensive and highly unsanitary conditions.

WHY ? ? ?

The answer to that question is simply "temperature". Bacterial life dislikes temperature changes, and, since your septic tank has no heating system to keep things cozy so that they can go about their work in comfort, they die off in the millions and billions when winter arrives, leaving only a "skeleton crew" of weakened bacteria to handle the heavy loads. Consequently, as winter months pass slowly by, a build-up of undigested grease and solids occurs, clogging the tank and passing through to the disposal fields. Grease congeals and deposits in the pores of the soil, almost to the point of being beyond repair. Melting ice, snow, and showers add to the problem by increasing the amount of water entering the system.

HOW SEA-CAL ENZYMES HELP

The powerful digestive powers of the enzymes contained in SEA-CAL rapidly liquefy the hard grease packs in the septic tanks and drainfields, changing such grease and other solids into available food for the bacteria. SEA-CAL also contains 80,000,000 anerobic bacteria per gram (28 grams in each ounce), and with each bacteria reproducing itself many times a day, the micro-organism population is rapidly built up to the adequate numbers, with the ultimate return of full operating efficiency.

IMPORTANT ! ! ! ! !

FOR THE BEST PROTECTION DURING SUMMER, DOUBLE YOUR SEA-CAL TREATMENTS, PARTICULARLY WHERE TANKS ARE UNDERSIZE OR ARE SUBJECT TO OVERLOADS AND/OR AMOUNTS OF DETERGENTS AND BLEACHES.

Officers Check 3 Theft Reports

Thefts of a radio, hubcaps, hydraulic jack and gasoline from two autos and a truck were reported to police Friday.

The Rev. S. H. Estel, 1637 Etruria St., told police the radio was stolen from his 1951 auto while it was parked in the entrance to his garage between 9 p.m. Monday and 2 p.m. yesterday.

Two disc hubcaps were stolen from a 1957 used car parked on their lot at 1600 Pennsylvania Ave. between 9 p.m. Thursday and 9 a.m. yesterday, officials of M. & A. Motors reported.

In a belated report, Gerace Brothers Produce, 223 W. 6th St., said a 5-ton hydraulic jack and 15 gallons of gasoline were removed the night of July 6 from a truck parked in the garage of the former Valley Produce Co. on Bradshaw Ave.

East End Mishap Damages 2 Cars

Two autos were damaged in an East End traffic mishap Friday at 11 p. m., but no one was injured, police reported.

The collision on Pennsylvania Ave. near Boyce St. involved a 1954 four-door sedan operated by Lewis Catagani, 33, of Calcutta and a 1962 two - door sedan driven by Victor Fray, 47, of 1830 Michigan Ave., officers said.

The crash damaged both doors on the right side of the Catagani car, along with the right rear fender. The front of the Dray car was damaged, police said.

The two drivers gave officers conflicting versions of the collision. Catagani said he halted to make a left turn and then proceeded when he was struck by a car that passed him on the right. Dray reported he was headed west on Pennsylvania Ave., intending to turn onto Park Way, when Dray pulled in front of him.

How to Run Your Home in Less Time

By MRS. FLORENCE W. LOW

President, American Home Economics Association

with Theodore Irwin

How can a harassed homemaker find practical ways to s-t-r-e-t-c-h time? To tackle the knotty question, a pilot program we called "Homemaking Short Cuts for the Working Woman" was launched last November in Washington under the joint auspices of the American Home Economics Association and the National Association of Home Builders. Hundreds of women jammed the National Housing Center to hear our experts tell them how to make more efficient use of minutes and hours. Now similar programs are being set up in other cities.

Leading home economists have devised many practical timesaving tips, all thoroughly tested. From the vast reservoir of such homemaking short cuts, I have selected these as being especially effective.

Equipping Your Home. When buying new house furnishings, consider the color or finish in relation to upkeep. Dark rugs and furniture show dust and finger marks much more than light and medium tones do.

In a two-story house, a second vacuum cleaner and ironing board on the upper floor will reduce steps, save time.

Buy sheets with fitted corners to cut down on motions in making the average bed. If you have a variety of bed sizes, pick different patterns or colors for double-bed and single-bed sheets.

House Care. Time yourself on cleaning jobs and know which can be done within a certain period. For example, when you have five minutes to spare while waiting for dinner to cook, you can do a five-minute job such as removing crumbs from your toaster and polishing it.

Have a portable container for often-used cleaning supplies and keep it ready to be carried to any area.

Discard or store nonessential kitchen utensils. It's a waste of time trying to keep cluttered drawers and cabinets in order.

ILLUSTRATION BY JOHN ALLEN

Harried housewives, here are homemaking short cuts devised and tested by experts

Let the clothes dryer fluff and remove dust from shag rugs, chenille items, bed and sofa pillows. Tumble draperies for a few minutes in the dryer to dust and freshen them. Most fabrics will not need pressing if you remove them from the dryer and hang them immediately.

Food Preparation. Make once, serve twice. When preparing stews, casseroles, or meat loaf, double or triple the quantities. Serve part and freeze the rest for later use.

The mess that is not made never has to be cleaned up. To prevent boil-overs, cook most fresh vegetables with ½-¾ inch of water in a covered saucepan (this also conserves food values). Start cooking bacon, chops, or hamburgers at low or medium heat to keep spatters to a minimum. Trim fat before broiling meat.

If you intend to serve orange juice from a frozen concentrate, take the can out of the freezer the night before and put it in the refrigerator. It will be easy to mix the next morning.

Care of Clothes and Linens. Provide sorting boxes or bins labeled "White," "Dark," "Delicate," "Heavily Soiled," and "Need Mending." A load or two from the fullest bin may be washed while some other job is being performed.

Shopping. Use your telephone as a preshopping aid rather than going from store to store to locate needed items. When feasible, buy by phone. Also, use manufacturers' brochures to get product information before going out to buy.

Arrange your shopping lists according to the location of stores on your trip. Organize your grocery list to follow the arrangement of departments in the supermarket.

If several members of your family wear about the same size, buy a different brand of socks and underwear for each. This simplifies sorting without using name tags.

To make homemaking simple, our home economists find the keynote to be "Plan ahead, buy ahead, make ahead."

How to Run Your Home in Less Time

By MRS. FLORENCE W. LOW

President, American Home Economics Association

with Theodore Irwin

DESPITE the laborsaving devices constantly being invented, three out of five women consider "lack of time" their biggest home-front problem, a recent government survey revealed.

How can a harassed homemaker find practical ways to s-t-r-e-t-c-h time? To tackle the knotty question, a pilot program we called "Homemaking Short Cuts for the Working Woman" was launched last November in Washington under the joint auspices of the American Home Economics Association and the National Association of Home Builders. Hundreds of women jammed the National Housing Center to hear our experts tell them how to make more efficient use of minutes and hours. Now similar programs are being set up in other cities.

Leading home economists have devised many practical timesaving tips, all thoroughly tested. From the vast reservoir of such homemaking short cuts, I have selected these as being especially effective.

Equipping Your Home. When buying new house furnishings, consider the color or finish in relation to upkeep. Dark rugs and furniture show dust and finger marks much more than light and medium tones do.

In a two-story house, a second vacuum cleaner and ironing board on the upper floor will reduce steps, save time.

Buy sheets with fitted corners to cut down on motions in making the average bed. If you have a variety of bed sizes, pick different patterns or colors for double-bed and single-bed sheets.

By installing air conditioning, you shorten dusting and cleaning chores. Wall-to-wall carpeting reduces floor-care time.

House Care. Time yourself on cleaning jobs and know which can be done within a certain period. For example, when you have five minutes to spare while waiting for dinner to cook, you can do a five-minute job such as removing crumbs from your toaster and polishing it.

Have a portable container for often-used cleaning supplies and keep it ready to be carried to any area.

Discard or store nonessential kitchen utensils. It's a waste of time trying to keep cluttered drawers and cabinets in order.

ILLUSTRATION BY JOHN ALLEN

Harried housewives, here are homemaking short cuts devised and tested by experts

Let the clothes dryer fluff and remove dust from shag rugs, chenille items, bed and sofa pillows. Tumble draperies for a few minutes in the dryer to dust and freshen them. Most fabrics will not need pressing if you remove them from the dryer and hang them immediately.

Food Preparation. Make once, serve twice. When preparing stews, casseroles, or meat loaf, double or triple the quantities. Serve part and freeze the rest for later use.

Have a cooking day occasionally. Prepare items that keep well in containers for quick use when removed from the freezer.

The mess that is not made never has to be cleaned up. To prevent boil-overs, cook most fresh vegetables with ½-¾ inch of water in a covered saucepan (this also conserves food values). Start cooking bacon, chops, or hamburgers at low or medium heat to keep spatters to a minimum. Trim fat before broiling meat.

Take advantage of fix-ahead desserts. Many, such as puddings and gelatins, can be prepared in the morning or the night before.

Wrap hamburgers, bacon, chops, steaks, and sliced meat so they can be taken out of the freezer in the desired portions.

If you intend to serve orange juice from a frozen concentrate, take the can out of the freezer the night before and put it in the refrigerator. It will be easy to mix the next morning.

Care of Clothes and Linens. Provide sorting boxes or bins labeled "White," "Dark," "Delicate," "Heavily Soiled," and "Need Mending." A load or two from the fullest bin may be washed while some other job is being performed.

When possible, remove clothes from the line or dryer while damp and iron immediately.

Shopping. Use your telephone as a preshopping aid rather than going from store to store to locate needed items. When feasible, buy by phone. Also, use manufacturers' brochures to get product information before going out to buy.

Arrange your shopping lists according to the location of stores on your trip. Organize your grocery list to follow the arrangement of departments in the supermarket.

If storage space permits, buy in quantity such things as paper tissues, laundry supplies, bottled goods, canned and packaged foods.

If several members of your family wear about the same size, buy a different brand of socks and underwear for each. This simplifies sorting without using name tags.

Establish a contact with a food store which makes home deliveries. In emergencies, you may find the timesaving well worth the extra cost.

Friends of the Bride

Glad clamor ascends from her feminine friends
When they learn that her troth has been plighted.
How blithely they trill at each party and shower
Over trousseau and linens and other lush dower—

What prospects of heaven each spies out
On meeting the bridegroom. So then comes the Day:
They go to the wedding, befurbished and gay,

—Georgie Starbuck Galbraith

Quips and Quotes

A young couple who were ardent dog fanciers always had two or three canines in their home. When the couple's first baby came along, friends wondered how the infant would get along with all the pets.

When the baby was about a year old, a friend hesitantly broached the subject. "Er, about the baby," he asked, "how is he doing—talking yet?"

"Not yet," the father replied proudly, "but you should hear him bark!"

—Dan Bennett

"Can't you give me some idea of the style home you want?" the architect asked. "Ranch, colonial, split-level . . ."

"All I know," replied the client, "is that it must match the doorknob my wife bought at an antique shop."

—Herm Albright

Safety Note

Turns a hubby with a hobby
To a hubby with a hobble.

—Suzanne Douglass

The young bride had just had her first argument with her husband and ran crying to her eldest sister. "We always disagree," she sobbed. "What should I do?"

"I don't really know," the sister said thoughtfully. "My John and I both like the same things—it just took him 12 years to learn."

They read; they cut out and pin on bulletin boards; they write in margins; they show to their friends; they clip and send in for more information. They choose colors, admire designs and compare styles.

And then they decide. Then they buy.

Like you, they look to print advertising for information about all kinds of products they're about to buy: cars and cash registers, cosmetics and clothes, sandals and sewing machines, garages and grass seed.

So if you and your product are in close competition with other advertisers and their products—better put part of your advertising in print. Better put it where readers and studiers and ready-to-buy buyers can find it.

ANY HUSBAND who ever took a trip knows he'll never get there on time.

In addition to all the stops for gasoline, ice-cream cones, and wrong turns resulting from navigational errors, he also will be forced to a halt at roadside souvenir stands and sit in the hot sun while the little woman trots eagerly among the birdbaths and baskets.

It beats me why you can buy all kinds of blankets made by the Navajos in New Mexico at all the stands in Minnesota and why the side-road Seminoles in Florida feature beaded belts made by the Indians in Minnesota.

The Italians turn out beautiful little figurines of Scottish Highlanders, and Paris perfume is a best seller in the British West Indies. In Paris you buy Highland heather.

So I suppose it's natural that almost any American souvenir shop features native art which was actually made by the head-hunters of Kenya. You know the usual assortment. There are hand-tooled leather bags, plaster peasants leading donkeys, little brown jugs labeled "Welcome to Bide-A-Wee," and genuine synthetic earrings that reach your shins.

But the shops are irresistible all the same. I clamber out at every "antique" shop to fondle the imitation cranberry glass ($47.50 at half price) or wander through the Side o' Shore Shop mooning over goatskin laundry bags. This has caused the rest of my family to miss the last ferryboat to the mainland, the last units at the motel, and the last chance at dinner before the cover charge.

On my latest expedition I found a quaint little mountain hideaway which dealt in primitive art. All its creations were the products of hillbilly artisans, weaving and carving by the light of the moon and turning out delicate specimens of bird cages and wastebaskets between stints at the still. Or so I was told.

I couldn't decide whether to buy the lopsided hamper, so rustic for the bathroom, or the wicker serving tray for those casual evenings by the pool I don't have. Finally, I decided on a reed basket, a real conversation piece to impress the stay-at-homes.

Only after I was back being one myself did I find the label inside.

It read: Made in Hong Kong.

WHAT I WOULD TELL A SON

Though he never married and had children of his own, the nation's No. 1 crime fighter offers this simple but inspiring credo for parents

By J. EDGAR HOOVER

Director, Federal Bureau of Investigation

AS I PONDER the problems we find ourselves all but swamped by today, I cannot help thinking that the rules which prevailed in my youth would still work for boys and girls now.

The Hoovers, for example, were a close-knit family. My mother and father shared equally the pleasures and the responsibilities of one daughter and two sons. Our circumstances were modest; yet none of us ever wanted for any necessity of life—and those necessities were, then as now, affection and the security of a balanced home.

Our parents taught us to have a good time, but to do it without trampling on the rights or property of others. The boy who went astray in those days worried a lot more about the punishment he knew was waiting for him at home than about the treatment he might expect from the police, the courts, or other authority. How seldom is this true of "problem" youths today!

Make no mistake: my young friends and I were healthy, active boys. We had the same boundless energy and inquisitive nature that have marked young people since mankind began. Yet we kept out of trouble, and when we didn't, we were man enough to face the music.

Why? I feel there were two basic reasons: first, we came from well-disciplined homes where the same definition of right and wrong applied to all members of the family; and, second, we honored our mothers and fathers and respected their word because, by their unfailing example, they truly merited our honor and respect.

If I had a son, I believe I could help him most by providing him with these five indispensables: a personal example to follow, an understanding of the importance of restraint and ideals, a sense of discipline, a pride in his heritage, and a challenge to meet.

Children certainly need an example to follow. I feel the most important lesson which my sister, my brother, and I received at home was the example set by our honest, hard-working parents. A plaque on our living-room wall summed up the whole thing. It read: "To command the respect of others, one must merit respect himself." Under this definition of responsibility, how many of today's parents can honestly claim the respect of their children? Certainly not those thousands who subscribe to the "do as I say, not as I do" philosophy!

As youngsters, we enjoyed life and the humorous give-and-take of healthy family relationships, but that was something far different from today's child-dominated "democracy," which all too often creates chaos in the home. Contradictions and inconsistencies never existed in our household because my parents took the long view: they felt that whatever "privileges" their adult years bestowed on them were inconsequential compared with the responsibilities of parenthood.

If I had a son, I'd think constantly about the part I had in helping him become a man. I would do my level best to understand him, to be a pal without being a pest, to encourage his boyish love of games and adventure, to direct him quietly to the right kind of friendships—those he would find, for example, in the Boy Scouts and the Police Athletic Leagues. I would not go out of my way to make life hard for him, but I would guide him to an awareness that life is not meant to be easy and that the best rewards come from the hardest efforts.

We would not have a forest of rules to cramp our growing up together—this son of mine and I—but both of us would know the handful of expectations I had established because I loved him. And both of us would know I'd see to it that he fulfilled those expectations, or else.

To help him grasp that while life may be hard it is also rewarding, I would impose the gentle pressure of performing regular tasks well within his capacity at each age level. I would gradually increase my requirements and penalize him proportionately if he let them slide—until that welcome day when he would begin to put the pressure on himself.

Criminals Share a Common Fault

Above all, I would teach him to tell the truth—and I, in turn, would tell him the truth no matter how it hurt or embarrassed. Truth telling, I have found, is the key to responsible citizenship. The thousands of criminals I have seen in 40 years of law enforcement have had one thing in common: every single one was a liar.

In addition to setting a good personal example, I would also teach a son the importance of restraints and ideals.

Contradictions arise continually in the lives of teen-agers, for today our youth must cope with the specter of an adult world rife with inconsistency. To the youngster, adults often appear by their attitudes to be saying: "Ignore traffic regulations!" "Make your own rules!" "Cheat whenever you think you can get away with it!" To turn the screw harder still, there are the unreasoning demands of an often arrogant juve-

The Hoovers, for example, were a close-knit family. My mother and father shared equally the pleasures and the responsibilities of one daughter and two sons. Our circumstances were modest; yet none of us ever wanted for any necessity of life—and those necessities were, then as now, affection and the security of a balanced home.

Our parents taught us to have a good time, but to do it without trampling on the rights or property of others. The boy who went astray in those days worried a lot more about the punishment he knew was waiting for him at home than about the treatment he might expect from the police, the courts, or other authority. How seldom is this true of "problem" youths today!

Make no mistake: my young friends and I were healthy, active boys. We had the same boundless energy and inquisitive nature that have marked young people since mankind began. Yet we kept out of trouble, and when we didn't, we were man enough to face the music.

Why? I feel there were two basic reasons: first, we came from well-disciplined homes where the same definition of right and wrong applied to all members of the family; and, second, we honored our mothers and fathers and respected their word because, by their unfailing example, they truly merited our honor and respect.

If I had a son, I believe I could help him most by providing him with these five indispensables: a personal example to follow, an understanding of the importance of restraint and ideals, a sense of discipline, a pride in his heritage, and a challenge to meet.

Children certainly need an example to follow. I feel the most important lesson which my sister, my brother, and I received at home was the example set by our honest, hard-working parents. A plaque on our living-room wall summed up the whole thing. It read: "To command the respect of others, one must merit respect himself." Under this definition of responsibility, how many of today's parents can honestly claim the respect of their children? Certainly not those thousands who subscribe to the "do as I say, not as I do" philosophy!

As youngsters, we enjoyed life and the humorous give-and-take of healthy family relationships, but that was something far different from today's child-dominated "democracy," which all too often creates chaos in the home. Contradictions and inconsistencies never existed in our household because my parents took the long view: they felt that whatever "privileges" their adult years bestowed on them were inconsequential compared with the responsibilities of parenthood.

If I had a son, I'd think constantly about the part I had in helping him become a man. I would do my level best to understand him, to be a pal without being a pest, to encourage his boyish love of games and adventure, to direct him quietly to the right kind of friendships—those he would find, for example, in the Boy Scouts and the Police Athletic Leagues. I would not go out of my way to make life hard for him, but I would guide him to an awareness that life is not meant to be easy and that the best rewards come from the hardest efforts.

We would not have a forest of rules to cramp our growing up together—this son of mine and I—but both of us would know the handful of expectations I had established because I loved him. And both of us would know I'd see to it that he fulfilled those expectations, or else.

To help him grasp that while life may be hard it is also rewarding, I would impose the gentle pressure of performing regular tasks well within his capacity at each age level. I would gradually increase my requirements and penalize him proportionately if he let them slide—until that welcome day when he would begin to put the pressure on himself.

Criminals Share a Common Fault

Above all, I would teach him to tell the truth—and I, in turn, would tell him the truth no matter how it hurt or embarrassed. Truth telling, I have found, is the key to responsible citizenship. The thousands of criminals I have seen in 40 years of law enforcement have had one thing in common: every single one was a liar.

In addition to setting a good personal example, I would also teach a son the importance of restraints and ideals.

Contradictions arise continually in the lives of teen-agers, for today our youth must cope with the specter of an adult world rife with inconsistency. To the youngster, adults often appear by their attitudes to be saying: "Ignore traffic regulations!" "Make your own rules!" "Cheat whenever you think you can get away with it!" To turn the screw harder still, there are the unreasoning demands of an often arrogant juve-and strafed us with machine-gun fire.

"We had two lifeboats. All but three men jumped into one boat, which was lowered into the water. The captain was in the wheelhouse taking care of the log, and the carpenter and I were unsuccessfully trying to lower the second boat."

During the last strafing attack, Cliff saved the carpenter's life by shoving him to the deck just as the plane came over. Bullet holes marked the spot where the carpenter had stood seconds before.

"The rest of the crew returned to the ship when it appeared we would stay afloat after all. Fortunately, the Japanese bomber pilot didn't think so. He took off." The Admiral Cole went to New Zealand for a week of major repairs—and a chance for Cliff to jump ship. "I wanted to join the New Zealand Air Force," he told me.

"I hid in a cemetery on a hill overlooking Wellington for five days and lived on raw carrots. On the sixth day, I saw smoke rising from the funnel of the Admiral Cole and decided it was safe to leave my hide-out."

No sooner had he arrived in town than he was stopped by two plain-clothes men. "Is your name Robertson?" one asked.

"How did you know?" Cliff burst out.

"You forgot your accent, old boy."

Back aboard the Admiral Cole, Cliff faced a not-too-stern captain. As he recalls: "Because of the perilous journey to New Zealand, almost all the guys got drunk and went AWOL. Only two of us were able to work at all that first day."

The day after his ship finally pulled into San Francisco, Cliff walked up to his grandmother's house—and found a gold star on her door. His ship had been reported sunk with all hands lost, and Cliff had been named La Jolla's first victim of World War II!

Later, Robertson enrolled in the U.S. Maritime Service, rose to Lieutenant (j.g.), and became one of the few sailors whose ship went down—after VE Day. "We piled up on rocks off the coast of Sweden during a heavy storm," he recalled, "but no one was seriously hurt."

He continued his sea duty after the war as third officer aboard a freighter out of New York, while trying to get up enough nerve to make the theatrical rounds. "I had some summer-theater experience in high school, but that was all," he says.

CLIFF GOT HIS apprenticeship in the Catskill Mountain resorts at $5 a week, plus room and board. But his big breaks came on Broadway and through television. Unfortunately, the tv roles he created went to other actors when movies were made of them. Marlon Brando starred in the film version of "Orpheus Descending," Paul Newman in "The Hustler," Anthony Franciosa in "Career," and Jack Lemmon in "Days of Wine and Roses."

But Cliff is convinced that "PT 109" will be a turning point in his career—and he hopes it will be a turning point in his private life as well. Although there's no one "special" right now, he wants to get married again and have more children.

Cliff was divorced in 1959 from Cynthia Stone after two years of marriage. They had one daughter, Stephanie.

"I've always longed for family life, probably because I didn't have the benefit of a mother or father," Cliff told me. Then he added philosophically, "I would like to use my childhood as an excuse for things I did wrong, but in all honesty I can't. It wasn't that bad. In fact, life has been pretty good to me all along—and it promises to be even better!"

nile world: "Don't be a square!" "You're chicken!" "Join the crowd!"

But teen-agers who have a strong set of standards to fortify their native intelligence do not fall prey to the smut merchant, the narcotics peddler, or the rest of the rodent swarm which fattens commercially upon the inexperience and natural curiosity of youth. These young people have developed, with parental aid, the moral restraint to rise above temptation, to turn their backs on the "smart set," and to remain true to their ideals.

Today, too many young people are developing neither the moral standards nor the restraint necessary to get along in a free society. Every community has its share of these youth. They are the members of teen-age gangs who belligerently roam the streets in search of "a rumble"; the school "drop-outs" who waste endless hours in unproductive idleness and, often, wrathful despair; the juvenile thrill seekers whose early delinquencies inevitably lead them to progressively more serious crimes.

These are unhappy youth. Their arrogant defiance of authority is a pitiful pose that seeks to conceal the tragic fear and insecurity which they feel. This fear, this insecurity exist because we have failed to prepare them to meet the personal demands and responsibilities of life in our American republic.

The way out of this dilemma is for youngsters to acquire a sense of discipline. But before a boy can practice self-discipline, he must learn discipline from others. We must establish for him standards of acceptable behavior—and we must enforce those standards.

"I tried to do the best I could, but I can't control him . . ." This was the weak lament of a doting mother whose 15-year-old son had been arrested for assault and robbery. How familiar her words are to every law-enforcement officer.

Children need guide lines. We owe it to them to spell out what they may and may not do. We must hold them strictly accountable when they breach the rules of decent conduct. When we are weak or inconsistent, when we pamper or overprotect—even in the preschool years—we set a pattern of confusion for our children. In the years ahead, our mollycoddling can lead only to their resenting and despising authority.

A youngster also must be taught to have a pride in his heritage. Theodore Roosevelt, a man of great strength and discipline, had boundless love for his country and her ideals. "Americanism," he said, "means the virtues of courage, honor, justice, truth, sincerity, and hardihood—the virtues that made America. The things that will destroy America are prosperity at any price, peace at any price, safety first instead of duty first, the love of soft living, and the get-rich-quick theory of life."

Know the Enemy of Freedom

President Theodore Roosevelt knew that America was born of adversity. He believed that her people have risen to their greatest heights in the face of grave challenge. He knew also that softness—mental, physical, or spiritual—is the mortal enemy of all who cherish freedom.

Has a "softening process" begun to set in for this generation and its elders? I earnestly hope not. Still, the danger signs are clear. They signal the growing need for all of us to increase vigilance against this disease that eats from within.

Finally, I want to stress the importance of challenge, which is the indispensable compatriot of free men. It is a wellspring of alertness and vitality for nations which find themselves tempted to grow complacent and slothful.

Our youth need challenge. We must destroy the false conception which today increasingly saps their spiritual stamina with the lie that life in a democracy is a mere jumble of rights and privileges without responsibilities. From their very early years, young people should have individual chores, specific goals, constructive projects to help sharpen their capabilities and develop strong character.

Above all, our youth need our help to insulate them against the negative forces—immorality, overindulgence, apathy, neglect—which prevail in so many areas of modern life. For doing this vital job in a way that will last a lifetime, there is nothing like a healthy home.

By no choice of our own, we Americans find ourselves facing a deadly situation—the most critical in the nation's history. Communism, a treacherous international conspiracy which now controls nearly one-third of the earth's peoples, challenges our very right to live in freedom under God. Coupled with it is the menace of a growing crime problem, one that flourishes in—is, in fact, largely caused by—the prevailing atmosphere of adult aloofness and indifference.

Today the bright burden of freedom rests squarely in our hands. Tomorrow we must pass it on to the new generation—to the boys and girls I have been talking about here. It is up to us to make sure that we hand it over to strong young citizens capable of meeting the test that lasting freedom imposes daily.

CLIFF ROBERTSON:

The Man Who Portrays JFK

This underrated actor got his first job at seven and once lived for three months in a car; but he and the President have one thing in common—they're both seafaring men By PEER J. OPPENHEIMER

PRESIDENT KENNEDY insisted on three conditions before he gave Warner Brothers the right to make a movie of "PT 109," the book about his naval exploits during World War II:

1. Any royalties accruing to him must go to the men of the original PT 109, or their families; 2. The actor who plays Kennedy must refrain from imitating him in any way; 3. The President must approve the actor who portrays him.

Among those considered for the prize role were some of Hollywood's most-in-demand actors, including Warren Beatty and Jeffrey Hunter. But the part finally went to Cliff Robertson—and it seems likely to bring him the recognition that has eluded him for so long.

"Even before the picture was released, there was great interest in me from all over the world," Cliff said. "Offers have been pouring in like mad."

The President's approval of Robertson obviously didn't hinge on any similarity in their childhoods. For all practical purposes, Cliff was an orphan. His mother died of a ruptured appendix when he was two. He is vague about his father's whereabouts thereafter, but apparently he rarely saw him.

Cliff was raised in La Jolla, Calif., by his grandmother. He went to work at seven, mowing lawns for 25¢ an hour. At nine, he got a job as door-to-door magazine salesman and within six months built up the largest circulation in the county.

At 12, Cliff switched to a still more profitable newspaper route, and a couple of years later he further increased his income by preserving appendixes at a clinic where his grandmother worked as a nurse.

But Cliff's next money-making scheme ended in disaster. He and a partner—both 16—invested their savings in a fishing skiff. They went out at 4 every morning to catch lobsters and got back just before school started. It proved profitable till they smashed their boat to bits on the rocky coast.

Nevertheless, Cliff's appetite for the sea was whetted, and he talked his buddy into driving to San Francisco the day after they graduated from high school to sign up as merchant seamen. He also talked his buddy's father out of his car, which was to provide more than transportation.

"We had counted on waiting a couple of days to find a ship. It took us three months," Cliff remembers. They used the sedan as their hotel room, washed and shaved in a nearby gasoline station, and ate food wherever they could get it.

When Cliff's pal was signed up before him, the car was taken back to La Jolla, and Cliff was deprived of his sleeping accommodations. "I spent the nights on the docks, spread out between crates," he recalls. Fortunately he was able to sign up on the freighter Admiral Cole the following week.

ONE SUNNY Sunday morning a few weeks later, the ship was in Philippine waters and Cliff was standing watch. He observed with interest a huge four-engine seaplane lumbering closer and closer. Soon it was almost directly overhead. To Cliff's surprise, the bomb bays opened and bombs hurtled toward the ship.

The date was Dec. 7, 1941.

"We didn't know that Pearl Harbor was being attacked simultaneously," Cliff said. "Our radioman was still in bed. On a small steamer, you don't always have 24-hour radio watch.

"The ship was hit and listing heavily as the plane came back again and again

This underrated actor got his first job at seven and once lived for three months in a car; but he and the President have one thing in common—they're both seafaring men By PEER J. OPPENHEIMER

PRESIDENT KENNEDY insisted on three conditions before he gave Warner Brothers the right to make a movie of "PT 109," the book about his naval exploits during World War II:

1. Any royalties accruing to him must go to the men of the original PT 109, or their families; 2. The actor who plays Kennedy must refrain from imitating him in any way; 3. The President must approve the actor who portrays him.

Among those considered for the prize role were some of Hollywood's most-in-demand actors, including Warren Beatty and Jeffrey Hunter. But the part finally went to Cliff Robertson—and it seems likely to bring him the recognition that has eluded him for so long.

"Even before the picture was released, there was great interest in me from all over the world," Cliff said. "Offers have been pouring in like mad."

The President's approval of Robertson obviously didn't hinge on any similarity in their childhoods. For all practical purposes, Cliff was an orphan. His mother died of a ruptured appendix when he was two. He is vague about his father's whereabouts thereafter, but apparently he rarely saw him.

Cliff was raised in La Jolla, Calif., by his grandmother. He went to work at seven, mowing lawns for 25¢ an hour. At nine, he got a job as door-to-door magazine salesman and within six months built up the largest circulation in the county.

At 12, Cliff switched to a still more profitable newspaper route, and a couple of years later he further increased his income by preserving appendixes at a clinic where his grandmother worked as a nurse.

But Cliff's next money-making scheme ended in disaster. He and a partner—both 16—invested their savings in a fishing skiff. They went out at 4 every morning to catch lobsters and got back just before school started. It proved profitable till they smashed their boat to bits on the rocky coast.

Nevertheless, Cliff's appetite for the sea was whetted, and he talked his buddy into driving to San Francisco the day after they graduated from high school to sign up as merchant seamen. He also talked his buddy's father out of his car, which wi: to provide more than transportation.

"We had counted on waiting a couple of days to find a ship. It took us three months," Cliff remembers. They used the sedan as their hotel room, washed and shaved in a nearby gasoline station, and ate food wherever they could get it.

When Cliff's pal was signed up before him, the car was taken back to La Jolla, and Cliff was deprived of his sleeping accommodations. "I spent the nights on the docks, spread out between crates," he recalls. Fortunately he was able to sign up on the freighter Admiral Cole the following week.

ONE SUNNY Sunday morning a few weeks later, the ship was in Philippine waters and Cliff was standing watch. He observed with interest a huge four-engine seaplane lumbering closer and closer. Soon it was almost directly overhead. To Cliff's surprise, the bomb bays opened and bombs hurtled toward the ship.

The date was Dec. 7, 1941.

"We didn't know that Pearl Harbor was being attacked simultaneously," Cliff said. "Our radioman was still in bed. On a small steamer, you don't always have 24-hour radio watch.

"The ship was hit and listing heavily as the plane came back again and again

Death of a Sub Killer

Off our Florida shore, a U. S. blimp sights a German U-boat and attacks; here—on the 20th anniversary of the encounter—is a thrilling, little-known chapter from World War II

By SI LIBERMAN

News Editor, Asbury Park Sunday Press

Editors' Note: A Naval era has ended: the last two of the Navy's lighter-than-air vessels—those familiar sausage-shaped blimps—were decommissioned in 1962 at Lakehurst, N.J. During the war these vessels protected our shores against marauding submarines, sometimes at great risk, as the following story of the K-74 testifies.

IT WAS A BEAUTIFUL summer evening—hardly a cloud in the sky or a whisper of a breeze. Visibility seemed unlimited as the K-74, a 250-foot-long blimp, slowly pushed skyward from its mooring at Richmond Naval Air Station in southern Florida.

The 10-member crew had never flown together as a unit on submarine patrol before, but each man either had experience with other crews or months of intensive flight training. None dreamed that this routine mission almost within sight of the coast would soon explode into a battle unparalleled in United States Naval history.

The date was July 18, 1943. Germany's U-boats—reportedly 500 to 700 strong—were still prowling the sea lanes in wolf packs, riddling convoys with torpedoes in a last-ditch effort to master the seas. Nearly 600 merchant ships had fallen victim, and the Allies were feverishly striving to develop an ironclad defense against them.

The airship, armed with newly perfected radar and depth bombs, was earning a reputation as an effective sub killer; the K-74, now lazily heading out over the Florida Straits, was part of an Atlantic fleet of 200 airships in the Navy's Antisubmarine Defense Program. It carried four depth bombs and a 50-caliber machine gun.

The moon was almost full, and the ocean was calm with only a slight swell. Midnight was an hour away, and navigator John Jandrowitz had just clocked the wind at 10 knots an hour. Then suddenly the idyllic peace was shattered by the shrill ring of the general-quarters alarm.

"I see a sub!" shouted Machinist's Mate 1st Class Isadore Stessel, the bombardier from Brooklyn. "To the left. It's surfaced."

The moonlight had created a perfect silhouette. It was a submarine, all right, sleek and streamlined. Its hull looked like a fast-swimming fish, and it was leaving a trail of foamy white wash.

"We can't be more than 30 or 35 miles east of Key West," a crewman said: "Must be ours."

"I doubt it," the commander declared, "but let's go back so we can get a good look at her."

Ensign Darnley Eversley, the copilot, turned the cigar-shaped airship right and made two circles from a distance of two miles, enabling the crew members to assess the submarine.

All agreed it had a rear deck gun, long and low, separated from the conning tower. There also appeared to be a forward gun and a twin-mount in the conning tower. But the aft gun was the clue, for only the German 750-ton U-boat was known to have one separate from the conning tower. It was characteristic of the German 750, and so was the low railing.

Grills checked his flight folder again. His charts showed that a convoy of nearly a dozen ships was to be in these waters in the morning.

Slowly and methodically, Eversley started the blimp on its third circle, swinging into a southerly direction to come in behind the sub for the bomb run. He increased his speed to 1,700 RPMs, dropped down to 250 feet above the water, and headed straight for the U-boat's starboard side. A burst of gunfire came at the blimp as she drew within 200 yards of her target.

"What's the matter?" Grills called as the blimp started over the sub. The airship had not bobbed up from the loss of weight as it always does when depth bombs or heavy gear are dropped.

ECKERT HAD FIRED his first belt of 60 shells and was completing his second when he was suddenly tossed off target! The blimp was on a steep, uncontrolled climb.

Ensign Eversley snapped back the throttles to break the climb but seemed powerless. The airship, still over the submarine, was standing on its tail and still climbing.

The submarine's gunfire resumed, and some shells ripped through the plastic front windows of the gondola. Schmidt reported that the fire in the right engine was out, but now the left one had been hit.

"We're going to ditch," Grills warned, pressing the crash button. Fuel tanks were dropped to lessen the danger of an explosion.

Sub Killer

The blimp's big rubber bag, torn with bullet and cannon holes, was partially deflated when the airship hit the water. Radioman John Rice, noting the time of 23:53, completed his last mayday call. Water covered the floor of the gondola.

"Abandon ship!" Grills ordered. Crew members quickly pulled the plugs to inflate their yellow life preservers and then made their way out via window escapes on both sides of the partially submerged gondola.

"Everyone's out all right and clear of the ship," Grills called to Eversley. "The life raft went down with the stern. Better get out of here because that sub may be looking for us. I'm going back to the ship to make sure the radar is destroyed and the flight-code book sunk."

Ensign Eversley called the men around him after Grills swam away. "We can do two things," he said, "either go back to the ship, which can be seen better by searchers—and also that submarine—or swim away from here. Each man decide for himself."

Four men—Rice, Schmidt, Radioman 3rd Class Robert Bourne, and the assistant gunner, John Kowalski—chose the former and followed Grills to the wreckage. Eversley, Jandrowitz, Gidding, Eckert, and Stessel swam out to sea.

WHEN DAWN CAME, the wreckage was still in sight, and new hope came over the Eversley group. "Look! Look!" Eckert pointed. A blimp appeared on the horizon. It was just a speck miles away. But it didn't come nearer and finally disappeared.

About two hours later a pair of blimps appeared and flew almost directly overhead but gave no indication of having seen the survivors. A few more minutes and a twin-engine seaplane came over the wreckage and dropped a parachute. The chute contained a package of supplies, but it landed out of sight and out of reach.

"It won't be long now," Eversley shouted to Stessel, and started swimming toward him. The bombardier, trying to keep himself above water, was about 30 yards away. The copilot planned to pull him closer to the other men. Eversley heard Stessel yell and stopped for a moment.

"There's a shark! There's a shark!" Stessel screamed, pointing to a black fin that was circling him. Eversley, barely 15 yards away, froze.

The shark circled Stessel two or three more times, then suddenly struck at him like a trout hits a fly.

"Oh my God! Help me!" Stessel cried as he splashed wildly with both arms. His face was covered with blood. The long, black monster had locked onto Stessel's waist and was tugging like a dog trying to pull away a bone. Its fin was slapping the water.

Eversley turned in horror. He couldn't watch any more, and he started swimming back to the other three men. They also had witnessed the savage assault and saw Stessel disappear with the fin.

"Let's pray," Eversley said, still shivering from fright. The four formed a square in the ocean and began in unison, "The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want . . ."

Fifteen minutes later they saw the last of the K-74 as the sea slowly swallowed its remains. There were two violent explosions — apparently from depth charges which were still armed and probably torn from their racks when the gondola hit the water. "Let's hope the others were clear of her," Gidding said.

There were two more hours of the blazing tropical sun and the incessant electric shocklike stings of Portuguese jellyfish. At 10:15 a.m., the destroyer U.S.S. Dahlgren came into view and soon hauled the men aboard.

A half-dozen shots rang out as the Dahlgren crew lifted Eversley, the last man. "There were two shark fins right behind you," a sailor with a rifle informed Eversley.

Another great sigh of relief came over the four when they learned Rice, Schmidt, Kowalski, and Bourne were also aboard, having been picked up about three miles away. It wasn't until eight hours later that Lt. Grills, suffering from severe sunburn and submersion, was rescued by a seaplane. He had become separated from the others during the night and was trying to swim to shore—a good 25 miles away.

The Navy, not very proud of its highly touted submarine killer's first performance against a surfaced enemy sub, waited 11 days before issuing a communiqué on the unprecedented engagement. The communiqué only gave the barest details: "A nonrigid airship, U. S. K-74, was lost at sea recently as the result of a gunfire attack by a surfaced enemy submarine . . . One member of the crew was lost."

The 75-word statement went almost unnoticed in the nation's press. Then, nearly two decades later, retired Vice Adm. Charles E. Rosendahl, doing research for a history of the Navy's nonrigid airship program, uncovered this bizarre war adventure. Investigating further, he learned through West German sources that on July 19, 1943, German Naval Headquarters received a radio message from U-boat 134 that it had been attacked and damaged by an American airship off the Florida coast.

THE SUBMARINE dispatch indicated that the blimp's gunfire had caused some damage to the boat's main ballast tank.

The U-134's message also showed that bombs were dropped from the airship, contrary to the belief of Lieutenant Grills.

Admiral Rosendahl learned that the destruction of the K-74 was avenged on Aug. 24, 1943, when a British bomber caught up with the U-134 in the Bay of Biscay off France. The bomber crew reported that the submarine was surfaced, apparently damaged, and limping back to port when its bombs found their mark. The German Admiralty confirmed this two months later when it disclosed that U-134, last heard from on Aug. 24, was presumed lost along with its crew of 28 officers and men.

Details of this unparalleled blimp-sub engagement were not declassified until 1961, when the Secretary of the Navy awarded special letters of commendation to every member of the K-74 crew except Lieutenant Grills. The lieutenant, now a lawyer in Indianapolis, was presented the Navy's Distinguished Flying Cross "for courage, skill, and devotion to duty in the face of hostile gunfire . . . in keeping with highest traditions of the United States Navy."
